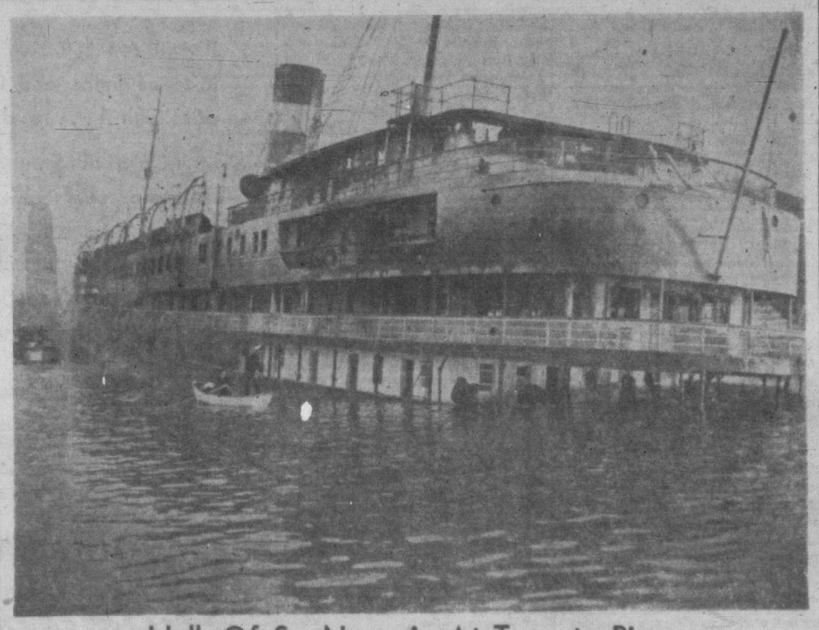
Lighter Toll Than First Feared From Ship's Holocaust

TORONTO (CP)—Slowly hope grew today that the feared toll of the Noronic disaster might lighten.

Nothing concrete was behind that hope. It was a buoyant thought that eased, somewhat, the task of searching for the dead. As the hours passed from the time early Saturday when Toronto's officials felt "almost certain" that the death list would total more than 200, it seemed just possible the ghastly toll would not touch that figure.

The figures early today were little changed from those given out a few hours after the Canada Steamships Line cruise liner burned at her Toronto harbor pier, within reach of all the modern fire-fighting apparatus provided by Canada's second largest city. In a temporary morgue were 121 bodies. Of 684 passengers and crew, there were 479 known survivors. Eighty-four persons were unaccounted for.

The hope had its beginnings in the unsuccessful efforts of divers probing the submerged stern section of the 6,900-ton Noronic to locate the "50 or 60" bodies some firemen said Saturday they believed were trapped in burned-out cabins or caught in sunken debris. Only three tarpaulin-wrapped charred and blackened forms were taken from the ship Sunday to join the others laid out in the building of death at the Canadian National Exhibition.



Hulk Of Ss. Noronic At Toronto Pier

As a night of death turned day, the fire-gutted Noronic listed sharply, then righted herself as her stern filled with water and her keel settled to the bottom of the slip in Toronto harbor. This shot was taken when firemen brought the blaze under control and began the grim task of recovering bodies.—(CP Photo)

First Formal Inquiry Into Toronto Ship Fire Opened

TORONTO (CP) — Behind closed doors, the first formal inquiry into the Ss. Noronic disaster began here today. Capt. Wilfred N. Morrison, supervisor examiner for masters and mates of the Department of Transport, began a confidential preliminary hearing.

"This is just an examination for discovery," Capt. Morrison said. "A full report will be sent to Ottawa, and the decision regarding a full public inquiry will be made there."

The Noronic, her black hull of steel laid down in Port Arthur in 1913 but her interior fittings largely of wood, was gutted at Pier 9 on the Queen's Quay on a quiet night for Toronto's police and fire departments. The sky was clear with the wind blowing steadily from the southwest.

It was the wind, Chief Engineer F. B. Bonnel of Sarnia, said later, that caused the lightning flash of flames from stern to stem. A contributing cause, he added, was the draft created by portholes open the length of the ship on a warm mid-September night. Flames raced along ship corridors as though along tunnels.

Police In Ontario Seize $43,500 In Bogus Bills

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—A cache of $42,000 in counterfeit $10 bills was seized early Sunday by R.C.M.P. and city police—the largest find since counterfeit currency started circulating recently across Canada.

Police said they had arrested Frank Cipolla, 32, and charged him with possession of counterfeit money.

Cipolla's arrest came shortly after his 25-year-old wife and Edith May Lafreniere, 24, of Brockville, had been arrested in Brockville, Ont. Brockville police said they had found $1,500 in spurious money in Miss Lafreniere's room.

Police here said they had found 42 bundles of bogus bills in a new cedar chest in Cipolla's bedroom. The bundles were made up in $1,000 lots, each containing 100 $10 bills.

Police said the bills generally were excellent reproductions. Some were slightly darker than the Bank of Canada bill.

Serial numbers on the bills were not in any sequence. Some of the bundles had all the same numbers, while others were made up of bills with different numbers, they said.

Police said that when they raided Cipolla's home "he was still asleep. . . . He offered no resistance but just sat on the edge of the bed while we made the search. . . ."

He was called to appear in court today.

Tedder On Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Marshal Lord Tedder, chief of staff of the R.A.F., was in Washington today. He arrived by Plans Sunday for an inspection of United States and Canadian air installations. He will spend about three weeks in the United States before going to Canada.

Battle Of Britain Week Kills Nine

LONDON (AP)—Final observances of "Battle of Britain Week" were marred Saturday by three separate air crashes in which nine R.A.F. men died.

Six crew members of a twin-engined Wellington bomber were killed near the Darlington air base. Their plane crashed and burned while flying in a low formation with three other bombers.

Earlier, two men died when a training plane crashed near the Upwood R.A.F. base while practising acrobatics.

A Saunders-Roe jet fighter fell into the sea off Felixstowe. The pilot was trapped inside the craft.

The flying displays ended Britain's annual observance of the victory over German air attacks in 1940.

Bernt Balchen Hops Over Top Of World On Good Will Flight

OSLO (UP)—A U.S. Air Force C-54 Skymaster piloted by Col. Bernt Balchen, landed here Sunday after a 4,000-mile flight from Alaska over the North Pole.

Balchen, Norwegian-American Arctic explorer and aviator, made the trip in 22 hours and 30 minutes. He is stationed in Alaska with the U.S. Air Force.

(Air Force circles in Washington said such flights now were considered "routine" because so many B-29 Superfortresses have flown over the North Pole. It was speculated that Balchen may have made the flight as a good will gesture to Scandinavia.)

Balchen, who led U.S. ski-equipped cargo planes into Norway during the war, timed his arrival to coincide with the aviation show in Oslo. Until he left for the United States a year ago, Balchen was a director of the Norwegian Air Lines here.

Balchen piloted Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd on his first flight over the South Pole.

14 Violent Deaths

TORONTO (CP) — Three deaths in an automobile crash in Ontario and two in a Quebec smash-up brought to 14 the number of week-end traffic fatalities reported in eastern Canada. Altogether, but in addition to the large number of lives lost in the Noronic ship fire at Toronto, there were 22 violent deaths. A Canadian Press compilation early today showed 16 fatalities in Ontario, four in Quebec and two in Nova Scotia.

New Auxiliaries

TORONTO (CP) — Wives of members of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) will be organized into women's auxiliaries, it was decided at a week-end meeting here of the union's district 26.

Brisk Buying, Selling At City Brokerage Offices

Victoria brokerage offices were busy from the opening today as a result of news of devaluation of the British pound. Both buying and selling was brisk. Canadian gold stocks jumped between 10 and 15 per cent during the first few hours of trading.

General attitude of Victoria investors seemed to be one of optimism. The immediate situation could change greatly at any time, however, and with realization of this, investors have many underlying doubts.

Devaluation of the Canadian dollar to some extent was expected, the trend of business indicated.

Many investors here expected the drop would be between 5 and 15 per cent. A 10 per cent drop was considered most likely.

One investor reviewing morning reports summed up the financial picture with the comment: "This is the start of something."

Just what the "something" will amount to and just how far Canada will become involved were questions which were being given serious consideration.

British-Made Goods Likely To Drop In Price In Canada

A revision in prices of goods from the United Kingdom as the result of the drastic devaluation of the British pound, was expected by Victoria businessmen today.

The price of cars, clothing, china and machinery was expected to drop in some cases by at least 30 per cent unless action was taken by the Canadian government to devaluate the Canadian dollar or impose duties on goods from the United Kingdom.

Businessmen said they were awaiting word from eastern manufacturers on price changes of British-made goods.

"It is impossible to make a snap judgment at the moment," said one businessman. "There is too much involved in the devaluation of the British pound."

One car dealer said he expected the price of British cars to drop within the next few days if nothing was done to protect Canadian automobile manufacturers.

"But I think the Canadian government will step in," he said. "British cars would be selling at lower prices than Canadian-made automobiles."

PENSIONERS HIT

British pensioners were expected to suffer as the result of the devaluation of the pound. Pensions are expected to be cut considerably and speculations are that some people from the United Kingdom may be forced to return to Britain.

Alleged Racetrack Swindle Exposed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three men were taken into custody in a race track racket bared by police.

The three were arrested Saturday at Exhibition Park here for attempting to cash pari-mutuel tickets that had never been sold.

Charged with retaining stolen property are: Frank Bell, 37; Nick Prokopchuk, 23, and Ralph McFadgen, 31, all of Vancouver.

Track officials say the tickets the men tried to cash had been stolen—either from the job plant where they are printed or from the track mutuel department.

Frantic Scenes On London Mart

United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP)—Gold fever swept London today like it did the American west just a century ago.

Hundreds of stock brokers went into action and sent the price of gold shares rocketing as much as 25 per cent. The Stock Exchange was closed. But the unofficial market in the narrow streets before the exchange turned into one of the biggest and most hectic "auctions" of the century as brokers bought and sold on the unofficial exchange.

By 9.30 a.m. the streets in front of the stock exchange were packed with silent brokers. Suddenly somebody passed a price for gold shares. Within five minutes the street had turned into a financial maelstrom.

MUCH SHOUTING

Brokers shouted themselves hoarse quoting prices. Runners darted through the ranks of bowler-hatted bidders. Sometmes they ducked between the legs of pin-stripe-trousered millionaires when their paths were blocked otherwise.

The din could be heard for blocks. Trucks and taxis were barred from the narrow side streets.

The price climbed steadily. Free State Geduldes gold shares, for example, climbed 15s from 77s 6d. Venterpost gold shares climbed 11s 2d from 38s.

Black gold boomed as well. Anglo-Iranian oil jumped 11s, and Shell climbed 4s and 4d.

Bank officials, clerks, cashiers and typists worked behind locked doors.

A proclamation signed by King George VI last Thursday at Balmoral Castle in Scotland was made public today. The proclamation officially closed all banks and stock exchanges because of devaluation of the pound.

LACK CHAINGE

Because of the bank holiday, Britain ran out of small change. Restaurants, bars and neighborhood shops were unable to get their usual Monday quotas of small change from their banks.

Hundreds of establishments posted "no change" notices and asked customers to pay exact amounts.

Many Londoners couldn't even buy their morning newspapers.

Bus and Subway lines refused to change anything larger than a two-shilling (40 cents) or a two and sixpence (50 cents) piece.

Canada's Dollar To Be Devalued, Authorities Say

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP) — An authoritative source told British United Press at noon today that Finance Minister Douglas Abbott would announce devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

The source indicated the devaluation would be 10 per cent.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's stand on the question of Canadian dollar devaluation likely will be made known tonight in the Commons.

Finance Minister Abbott will make a statement of policy resulting from the sudden sharp cuts in value of sterling currencies announced Sunday.

Meanwhile, dealings in foreign exchange are at a standstill until business opens Tuesday, when the Foreign Exchange Control Board will tell agents and dealers what the new rates of exchange will be.

The one-day halt was ordered by Mr. Abbott Sunday in a brief statement made public four hours after Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the United Kingdom the pound had been revalued at $2.80 from $4.03 in terms of the United States dollar.

Mr. Abbott's brief announcement left it to speculation as to whether it was the government's intention to lower the external value of the Canadian dollar, now fixed at par with the U.S. dollar. On the open market in New York it fluctuates at a discount of between six and 10 cents.

COMMENT DELAYED

He told reporters he would not discuss any angle of the international monetary picture until he made the government's policy known in the Commons. Other financial and economic officials were equally reluctant to comment.

At least part of the sterling announcements made Sunday appeared to come as a surprise to Ottawa officials. The intention to devalue was disclosed to Canadian, United States and British representatives at the monetary talks in Washington a week ago. However, the extent of devaluation was not known here until Sir Stafford Cripps' announcement.

No Daily Insulin In New Treatment Given Diabetics

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—Nearly all people with diabetes can live normal healthy lives without daily shots of insulin, declares a report released at the week-end by the American Chemical Society.

With a new treatment based on diet, 99 per cent of adults with diabetes can get along without insulin, said Dr. Michael Somocyi, biochemist of the Jewish Hospital of St. Louis.

The others may need only a small amount of insulin daily.

Too much insulin can be dangerous, poisoning a diabetic and making him chronically ill through a chemical tug-of-war in his body, Dr. Somocyi declared.

This way to freedom from insulin was found during a 14-year study of 4,000 diabetic patients in St. Louis. The main basis is a diet that keeps body weight at the ideal level for a person's age and build. It allows enough starches, sugars and proteins, but cuts down on fats.

Records Set At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Gold stocks soared upwards for the highest gain on record in the forenoon on the Toronto Stock Exchange today following the devaluation in the pound sterling.

The exchange's index recorded an advance of 9.56 in the first hour of heavy trading—the highest on record.

Turnover in the first hour was the heaviest since Nov. 18, 1947, at 1,046,000 shares. This is about 693,000 shares more than Friday's first hour.

Gains in senior gold producers ranged up three points with juniors showing advances ranging up to 60 cents.

Activity bubbled over in base metal and industrial lists and prices climbed strongly.

The price level in golds was the highest since 1947 and industrials were at the highest point of the year.

Must Redouble Efforts

LONDON (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps said today Britons must "redouble all efforts" to export goods now that the pound has been cheapened.

Reviewing the results of the Washington dollar talks, the Chancellor of the Exchequer told a press conference:

"We agreed to create appropriate incentives to export to the dollar areas and make a vigorous attack on production. Well, we have created the incentive, all right."

The pound now is officially worth only $2.80, compared with the previous $4.03. Britons hope this will stimulate exports by lowering the selling price of British goods.

"If we are to succeed in reaching a long-term solution of the dollar-sterling problem," Sir Stafford said, "we must regard it as a joint one requiring joint action."

And that, he added, was the object of the Washington conference.

Sir Stafford tossed out what could be interpreted as a hint that the Labor government intends to soften its attitude toward private industry.

"We realize that conditions have changed in the matter of capital investment," he said "and that we must study the problems of incentive and suitable environment to capital investment."

The Labor Party already has nationalized such things as the railroads and coal mines. It is in the process of taking over the iron and steel industry.

Many Deer Bagged On Opening Week-End; No Island Accidents

With many hundreds on the game trails of Vancouver Island during the week-end for the opening onslaught against the buck deer herd and blue grouse coveys, indications up to a late hour this morning were that no hunting accidents of a serious nature had occurred. There was one rumor of a hunter on the lower island getting a pellet in the eye, but this could not be confirmed immediately.

Although no deer shooting is allowed in the Sayward Forest area of Campbell River and Sayward this year, the reports spoke of a heavy invasion of that country to seek grouse bags.

In regard to the lower end of the island, game wardens reported that many hunters scored their first deer prizes.

Island game boss, Inspector George Stevenson, up at Hillcrest Sunday, reported quite a lot of hunters in action.

Chief complaint of hunters he encountered was that the rain had scattered the blues. He said there were quite a few scored limit bags of the birds and that most got a few. The inspector said most of the limit bags were collected by those hunters who took to the higher levels.

Game Wardens Bob Sinclair and Joseph Jones reported checking about 35 deers on cars between 3.30 and 9 yesterday afternoon and evening at a check point. "They were good size and in good shape, they reported.

Churchill Wants Parliament Called

Devaluation Of Canadian Dollar Expected

Believe 121 Final Total Of Ship Toll

TORONTO (CP)—As the first formal inquiry into the Ss. Noronic fire disaster opened today, an official of the Canada Steamship Lines said he felt sure the toll of dead would remain at 121.

"I feel quite sure 121 is the correct toll and no more bodies will be found," said Robert Ness, secretary of the C.S.L.'s operating department.

This tallied with figures compiled by the Canadian Press which showed 121 bodies recovered, 479 known survivors and 84 persons unaccounted for from a total of 864 passengers and crew.

"I do not belive there are any bodies left in the ship," Ness said. "We had divers at work in the ship all day yesterday, and it has been thoroughly searched."

Another company official said earlier he was certain those unaccounted for to date would turn up safely at their homes in the United States.

At mid-day, an official of the emergency morgue where the 121 burned bodies had been taken said 28 had been identified and released. Two had been identified but not released by the coroner. Another five had been tentatively identified.

The inquiry ordered by the Federal Department of Transport was opened by Capt. Wilfred N. Morrison, supervising examiner for masters and mates.

CREWMEN TESTIFY

He said that only members of the Noronic's crew would be called at witnesses at today's hearing which was held behind closed doors. A full report would be sent to Ottawa and decision regarding a full public inquiry will be made there, he added.

Only three tarpaulin-wrapped charred and blackened forms were taken from the ship Sunday to join the others laid out in the building of death at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Anxiously Await News

Survivors of the Noronic disaster huddled on benches after rescue from the fire-swept Great Lakes cruise ship early Saturday. Some survivors waited hours to learn the fate of kin or friends. See other Noronic pictures, page 3.—(CP Photo)

Gets 21 Days

TORONTO (CP)—Thomas Sharpe, 25, today was sentenced to 21 days for obstructing police and trying to force entrance into an emergency morgue set up to receive bodies from the disastrous fire aboard the Ss. Noronic here.

Police said a group of zoot-suiters with a macabre sense of humor tried to force their way into the morgue at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds at a time when only one officer was at the door.

Fear B.C. Exports May Be Hurt By Devaluation

Government officials were conferring today on Britain's devaluation of the pound and, like the man on the street, were anxiously awaiting outcome of Finance Minister Abbott's talk with federal government leaders on what status the Canadian dollar will have.

It is not expected the devaluation will have a great effect on B.C. financing in that most of the bond issues are payable in dollars.

But it was a different story in talks among trade and industry officials worried over export markets.

Trades Minister Leslie Eyres commented "On the overall picture the devaluation will no doubt benefit the United Kingdom until she readjusts her internal price structure."

It was feared that because Canadian goods would cost more in the United Kingdom with the pound devalued, purchasers would look for substitutes either of U.K. production or from other sources of supply.

On the other hand, imports from the U.K. undoubtedly would cost B.C. purchasers less which would be an inducement to buy quality goods offered by the British.

There was one problem here, though. Delivery dates of goods purchased in the U.K. were late and it was difficult to see how the devaluation would better the situation.

"The long-term picture as I see it," said Mr. Eyres, "is that by the United Kingdom increasing its export trade to dollar countries it will accrue more dollars to spend on purchases in dollar countries."

He thought there would be a great influx of tourists to the U.K.—the biggest in history.

If the Canadian dollar was deflated, a similar upswing in tourist travel to Canada from the U.S. could be expected.

Ten Per Cent Cut Reported Agreed Upon

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP)—An authoritative source told British United Press at noon today that Finance Minister Douglas Abbott would announce devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

The source indicated the devaluation would be 10 per cent.

But a sharp conflict of view divided the cabinet on the currency issue, it was learned. It was for this reason that Canada's devaluation step was not announced Sunday night simultaneously with Sir Stafford Cripps' announcement.

The battle within the cabinet was said to have raged all weekend. The cabinet first met on the matter last Friday night. It continued meetings Saturday until almost midnight. The cabinet was in session again today.

The cabinet was divided into two groups: Those who felt Canada should hold to parity, and those who believed British devaluation and the parade of their currencies made it imperative that Canada follow.

Grudgingly, however, the government as a whole accepted the argument that Canada had no alternative to dropping the value of its dollar, it was learned.

POSSIBLE COURSES

With the inevitability of devaluation conceded, the cabinet debated three possible courses—a free Canadian dollar, a 10 per cent devaluation, and a 15 per cent devaluation.

Decision was reached finally upon the middle course alternative of a 10 per cent devaluation, authoritative sources said.

Gold Shares Run Wild In British, Canadian Markets

By CANADIAN PRESS

A devaluation boom hit London's financial district today and gold traders went wild on the Toronto market.

London's market was closed, but there was wild trading on the streets, in the open air. Shouting jobbers added tens of millions of pounds to the market value of gold, industrial and oil shares.

The pavement of Throgmorton Street in London's financial district were jammed by 2,000 brokers, jobbers and clerks. Gold shares were hoisted as much as 63 per cent.

First reaction in British Columbia to Britain's devaluation was seen on the Vancouver Stock Exchange this morning when gold share prices skyrocketed. Senior stocks, Bralorne and Pioneer, soared $1.30 to $11 and 55c to $4, respectively, in heavy trading.

In Toronto the trading floor was bedlam. In the first hour the exchanges' gold index made a record gain of 9.56 points to 114.63. First-hour volume, at 1,046,000 shares, was the highest in two years.

In Montreal, securities began to level off near noon after a few hectic minutes just after the opening. Mines, however, were retaining the gains they marked up early.

NEW YORK REACTION

An opening burst of selling hit the New York market, but it hit reaction bottom almost immediately and by the end of the morning the market was taking the devaluation news in stride.

Trading slowed after the first few minutes. Gold issues moved ahead as much as a point or more, but slightly lower prices were the rule for most other issues at noon.

At Chicago, devaluation brought liquidation in grain futures. Near the end of the first hour wheat was five-eighths cent to 1⅛ cents lower.

Pleads Guilty To Conducting Lottery

In city police court this morning, Frank G. Hilton, 36, of Prospect Lake, elected summary trial and pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawfully conducting a sweepstake of nation-wide proportions. He will reappear in court for sentence Thursday. He will not be held in custody as Magistrate H. C. Hall granted counsel's request that the $500 bail continue.

In a series of raids last week after Hilton's arrest, city police seized a mass of records pertaining to the Canadian Mutual Transportation Association sweepstake and smaller lotteries. The raids have smashed a lottery in operation the length and breadth of the Dominion.

Calls Ford Strike For Sept. 29 If Demands Not Met

DETROIT (BUP)—The C.I.O. United Auto Workers today called a strike against the Ford Motor Company for Thursday, Sept. 29, unless the union's economic demands are met. Such a strike would effect Ford plants across the United States and in Canada.

U.A.W. president Walter P. Reuther gave Ford notice of intent to cancel his union's contract at that time.

A strike of production employees would shut down 33 plants across the U.S., idle tens of thousands of other workers in a short time and choke off production of 6,340 cars a day.

Cancellation of the contract meant a strike under the U.A.W.'s traditional "no contract, no work" policy.

However, there was no break-off in negotiations and settlement of the U.A.W.'s pension, health insurance and other demands still was considered likely before the strike deadline.

Devaluation Hits Many British Pensioners Here

Smaller incomes faced hundreds of British pensioners living in Victoria today as the result of the drastic devaluation of the British pound.

Bank officials said people who relied on pensions and remittances from the United Kingdom would have to take a drastic cut on their incomes.

"Unless there is an agreement in their pensions protecting them from the possibility of devaluation they will feel the effects," said one bank official. "I'm afraid, however, they will mostly have to take the bump like the consumer."

Hardest hit by the devaluation of the pound are British war veterans and Canadian war widows who married members of the British armed forces. Their pensions will be cut nearly by half.

One Canadian war widow pointed out if the pound dropped to $2.80 it would mean that she will receive appromixately $36 to support herself and one child. She was getting before approximately $55.

British people retired in Victoria and living on small pensions from the United Kingdom will also suffer. Many now will not receive enough money to live on. As a result some are expected to return to the United Kingdom unless they can find some additional source of income.

Several persons today said they were making arrangements to return to England.

Bail For Three On Narcotic Charge; Fourth Refused

MONTREAL (CP)—Four men arrested last week by R.C.M.P. in connection with the seizure of heroin worth $90,000 appeared in court today. Three were granted bail and the other was refused.

Bail of $10,000 was granted Rev. J. Arthur Taillefer, 38-year-old Roman Catholic priest who was arrested with Michael Sisco, 35, a nightclub operator. Sisco was refused bail when special prosecutor Roger Ouimet said he was not a Canadian citizen and had entered the country illegally. He said Sisco was a citizen of Italy and no bail should be allowed until preliminary inquiry Sept. 21.

Jean Pares, 32, was granted $500 bail and two bonds of $950 each were required for 32-year-old Rosaire Delisle.

The four were arraigned Friday on charges of selling and being in possession of narcotic drugs and had been ordered held for three days for questioning.

Dealers Expect Price Drop Here In British Cars

Victoria dealers said today they expected British-made cars would drop in price as the result of the devaluation of the British pound.

While awaiting word from manufacturers as to price changes, they expressed the opinion there would be no drastic cut in retail prices.

"There are a lot of things to take into consideration," one dealer said. "The rising cost of living in the United Kingdom may tend to keep the price of British cars up."

Another dealer said if Canada devaluated the dollar the price reductions on British cars would be slight.

At least 12 makes of British cars sold in Victoria are expected to be affected by the drop in value of the pound sterling, dealers said.

Australia, New Zealand India Cut Currencies

By STUART UNDERHILL

LONDON (CP)—Prices of British goods in North American markets will take a sharp drop as a result of devaluation of the pound sterling.

As of Sunday night the pound is worth $2.80, compared with its previous value of $4.03.

The change, which had been predicted for months—and denied by official sources up to the last minute—was announced to United Kingdom radio listeners Sunday night by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The Chancellor himself had consistently and firmly said "no" to reports that devaluation was pending. Sunday night he said Britain had been forced into it by the continuing drain on sterling-area holdings of gold and dollars.

It was in hopes of checking this drain that the new rate had been fixed. He said it might be raised "if events prove we have gone down a bit too low."

Seeondly, devaluation was aimed at increasing Britain's power to earn dollars, for "that's the only permanent solution for our difficulties — to earn more dollars."

Britain's money move touched off the biggest world-wide round of financial juggling since the dark days of the depression.

Eleven other countries whose trade is closely linked with Britain immediately followed suit in cheapening their money. Others were expected to join soon in the parade.

Within a few hours after Britain's announcement, similar cuts in the value of their currency were announced by Australia, South Africa, India, New Zealand, Republic of Ireland, Israel, Norway, Denmark, Egypt, Malay and Burma.

Pensions Resolution

EDMONTON (CP)—Members of the Montgomery branch of the Canadian Legion voted unanimously Sunday to have all pensions for Imperial veterans who served with Canadian armed forces paid in Canadian currency. Their action was registered in a telegram to the federal minister of veterans' affairs.

Members feared that devaluation of the British pound from a dollar value of $4.02 to $2.80 would cause a serious loss of income to Imperial veterans who receive Canadian pensions in British currency.

Vishinsky Hopeful For United Nations But Stresses 'If'

NEW YORK (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia arrived here today with optimistic words about the United Nations—but with a big if. He arrived to attend the U.N. General Assembly tomorrow.

He told reporters:

"The Soviet delegation is fully confident that the United Nations is, as the head of the Soviet government, Stalin, said, a serious instrument for the maintenance of peace and international security."

He added:

"There can be no doubt that the General Assembly would be able to solve the important problems before it, providing the nations of the United Nations show a sincere desire to co-operate with each other and in accordance with the principles of the United Nations' charter."

Cripps Says Devaluation Incentive To New Efforts

LONDON (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps said today Britons must "redouble all efforts" to export goods now that the pound has been cheapened.

Reviewing the results of the Washington dollar talks, the Chancellor of the Exchequer told a press conference:

"We agreed to create appropriate incentives to export to the dollar areas and make a vigorous attack on production. Well, we have created the incentive, all right."

The pound now is officially worth only $2.80, compared with the previous $4.03. Britons hope this will stimulate exports by lowering the selling price of British goods.

Sir Stafford chided a reporter who asked his views on possible devaluation of the Canadian dollar, but most of his listeners got the impression he would welcome such a move.

"Now now, you know what Mr. (Finance Minister) Abbott would say if I answered that," he said with a smile.

When he was asked if Canadian devaluation would be a good thing for Britain, he smiled again and said:

"You can do arithmetic as well as I can."

If the Canadian dollar rate were lowered, it would help Britain by reducing the cost to her of Canadian wheat and other raw materials. Sir Stafford may have had this in mind when he said Sunday night that the price of bread would be increased 1½d (2½ cents) a loaf "unless there are changes made in other exchange rates which may make a smaller increase sufficient."

"If we are to succeed in reaching a long-term solution of the dollar-sterling problem," Sir Stafford said, "we must regard it as a joint one requiring joint action."

And that, he added, was the object of the Washington conference.

Police In Ontario Seize $43,500 In Bogus Bills

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—A cache of $42,000 in counterfeit $10 bills was seized early Sunday by R.C.M.P. and city police—the largest find since counterfeit currency started circulating recently across Canada.

Police said they had arrested Frank Cipolla, 32, and charged him with possession of counterfeit money.

Cipolla's arrest came shortly after his 25-year-old wife and Edith May Lafreniere, 24, of Brockville, had been arrested in Brockville, Ont. Brockville police said they had found $1,500 in spurious money in Miss Lafreniere's room.

Police here said they had found 42 bundles of bogus bills in a new cedar chest in Cipolla's bedroom. The bundles were made up in $1,000 lots, each containing 100 $10 bills.

Police said the bills generally were excellent reproductions. Some were slightly darker than the Bank of Canada bill.

Serial numbers on the bills were not in any sequence. Some of the bundles had all the same numbers, while others were made up of bills with different numbers, they said.

Steel Talks Fail

WASHINGTON (UP) — The U.S. government failed today in its first effort to mediate in the steel strike set for midnight Saturday, but another peace conference was scheduled for later in the day.

Dollar Discounted

NEW YORK — Brokerage houses in New York today were offering Canadian dollars at a 2½ per cent discount and trades were being made at that level.

U.S.-Wide Coal Strike On Over Welfare Fund Hoist

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A nation-wide "no welfare, no work" coal strike began today.

The shutdown in western Pennsylvania's bituminous field appeared to be 100 per cent. A spot-check showed members of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers had failed to report for work in both soft and hard coal mines.

Miners reported for work at some pit entrances, but after milling around entrances and discussing the suspension of welfare fund benefits, they returned to their homes.

At other mines, a few pickets showed up, stood around a while and then left.

Illinois' 20,000 United Mine Workers apparently were following their eastern union brothers out on strike.

Austrian Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced today Soviet Russia has agreed to resume four-power negotiations on a treaty with Austria. The negotiations, interrupted at London Sept. 1, will be renewed Thursday in New York.

Churchill, Liberals Ask British Parliament Meet

LONDON (Reuter) — Winston Churchill, Conservative Party leader, today asked for Parliament to be called together not later than next week to consider the new situation created by devaluation of the pound.

Parliament is not due to meet again until Oct. 18.

Clement Davies, leader of the parliamentary Liberal Party, after an emergency meeting of the party's committee today, also asked for immediate recall of Parliament to discuss devaluation of the pound, and the government's "proposals for a permanent solution of the economic crisis."

TOPICAL TOPIARY

DURING a brief visit to Loretto Hall the other day, I overheard a couple of visiting prairie-ites exclaiming with astonishment at the quaint shapes into which the trees and shrubs had been cut on this pioneer estate. They had never seen anything like it before.

For years, this former home of the Pendray family has been noted for its topiary—an art which is almost unknown on this side of the Atlantic and which was first brought to this city by the founder of the pioneer family alluded to above.

Oldtimers, who have been familiar with its fantastic collection of figures over the years, have some idea of the tremendous patience involved, not only in the original shaping but in keeping them trained to form.

WELSH EDEN

ANYONE who has visited some of the older estates in Britain and such historic gardens as those at Hampton Court Palace will recall the topiarist's art as exemplified in perfection in those places.

However, an illustrated article in the Picture Post, an English publication, describes a little-known collection over there which is probably the most unusual of its kind in the world—and I know that is taking in a lot of territory!

But in this particular instance I think it is justified, for an old Welshman who died last year, aged 83, left an extraordinary monument to his patience in the shape of a Garden of Eden at his home in Abergwili, Carmarthenshire, containing more than 150 of these twiggy sculptures.

BIBLE CHARACTERS

A FORMER farm laborer, lead miner and plate-layer, David Davies built himself a modest cottage in 1924. He soon became not only noted for his garden, his bees and poultry, but also as "a bit of a bard," being in much demand for the writing of elegies.

Davies, being a devout man, also knew his Bible from beginning to end, from "In the Beginning" to the last "Amen." So when he retired in 1930 and became interested in topiary, it was only natural that he should go to the "Good Book" for inspiration.

Starting with Adam and Eve and the serpent, he next clipped his way into the New Testament, depicting the Crucifixion, complete with the two thieves, John and the weeping women, and the Roman soldier thrusting his sword into Christ's side.

ANIMALS AND THE ARK

THEN HE went back to the Flood and sheared his bushes to represent the animals who went, two by two, into the Ark, reproducing them in the leaves with amazing fidelity. His leafy replicas are particularly interesting in view of the recent expedition up Mount Ararat to find the Ark's final resting place.

Davies next went in for bigger tableaux in twigs, essaying the Flight into Egypt, the Last Supper, and the Ascension, as well as many other familiar incidents in Biblical history.

Local and national figures also found their way into this Welsh Garden of Eden. The Royal Family, Churchill, Roosevelt, Stalin, Chamberlain and Ghandi found themselves in the mixed company of angels, sinners, prophets, poets and politicians galore.

DANIEL AND HITLER

THINGS WERE getting a bit crowded over the years, so much so that Hitler found himself growing up with Daniel in the lion's den—a juxtaposition which may not have been entirely accidental on the old Welshman's part.

As with everything else, the story of his amazing undertaking is not without its funny side. For in creating the finding of Moses in the bulrushes, the infant Moses gave trouble. The branches of the bush would not stay down, so the baby sat up out of the rushes.

TROUBLE WITH EVE

AS FOR EVE, she lived up to her trouble-making reputation. For visitors who saw his original Eve, chastely clothed, objected so strongly on the ground of inaccuracy that he had to clip her leafy draperies away!

But when you take into account the almost inexhaustible, Job-like patience of that old Welshman, and reflect that such patience and stick-to-it-iveness are now almost obsolete virtues, we may well overlook such leafy lapses in an art which, too, belongs to another fast-disappearing epoch.

Filming Cinderella Big Job For Walt Disney Staff

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What does the famost famous girl in all legend look like? This was Walt Disney's first problem when the cartoon wizard decided to film the story of Cinderella.

She should be blonde or brunette, slender or plump, sexy or prim?

Casting a cartoon is infinitely tougher than casting human actors. Cinderella's photograph isn't listed in the casting directory. She exists only in the imaginations of men.

So the Disney brain trust—Walt, his story men, two artists and directors—began thinking, talking, even dreaming about Cinderella. She had to be cast with caution, for the storied slavey is a world figure, and Disney shoots for the world market.

Walt's researchers learned that versions of the Cinderella legend are part of the folklore of almost every land—except America. The European nations, Egypt, India, even oriental countries, have their Cinderellas.

The myth of the simple girl whose goodness is rewarded by marriage to a prince may have been the first "boy meets girl" theme.

Here's how Disney found his Cinderella:

His artists submitted more than 50 conceptions of the cinder sweeper. The barin trust analyzed each, mulling possible faces, figures, hair styles, costumes, complexions—they even worried abouu the size of her feet.

Radio singer Ilene Woods, 23, and a mother, speaks Cinderella's lines and warbles her six songs. Disney hopes to have Cinderella in theatres by Christmas.

Fish For Oranges

OSLO (CP) — Unless Norway can arrange to trade mackerel for Italian oranges, there will be no fruit imports this year, according to Supply Minister Nils Honsvald. Aside from this prospect, there are no plans for importing fruit from abroad.

Toronto M.P. Urges Better Great Lakes Life-Saving Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—T. L. Church, Progressive Conservative M.P. for Toronto-Broadview, said at the week-end he would continue a 28-year-old fight in the Commons for better life-saving and shipping facilities on the Great Lakes.

Shocked by the Toronto harbor disaster in which the Canada Steamship Lines vessel Noronic burned and sank Saturday, Mr. Church told reporters he had prepared Friday a series of questions on a subject he had hammered at ever since he was elected to the Commons in 1921.

He said he would ask the government what had been done since last session to establish a Maritime commission in Ontario for the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes, what facilities and aids to navigation had been established, what had been done to replace the Ss. Northumberland, burned at Port Dalhousie last summer, and what had been done since last session to establish a proper system of life-saving in the Great Lakes."

Terming the Noronic disaster "disgraceful," the former Toronto mayor and Toronto harbor commissioner said he had been trying for years to get better shipping facilities in the Great Lakes system.

"The Americans have the Great Lakes system under their war department," he said. "They have a full chain of life-saving stations along their entire lake coast."

"The only life-saving station on the Canadian side is in Toronto, and it is supported entirely by the Toronto taxpayers," he said. "The federal government has done nothing to remedy this situation."

Search Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — The search for two Italian fliers, missing on a flight from the Azores to New York, was called off Sunday night.

The United States Coast Guard said orders to abandon the hunt affected U.S. planes and ships and the R.C.A.F.

All hope apparently was abandoned for the missing pair, John M. Brondello and Camillio Barioglio.

Flying a light Beechcraft Bonanza, they took off from the Azores Friday morning.

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Work has begun on a $581,000 project to extend landing facilities at Sydney airport. Plans include lengthening of one of the three runways, resurfacing of all runways and several new buildings.

New Deputy Minister

REGINA (BUP)—It is reported here the next deputy provincial minister of health will be Dr. F. D. Mott, now acting deputy minister.

The present deputy minister, Dr. C. F. W. Hames, was given three months leave of absence, Aug. 6, because of illness.

Reports in Regina state that Dr. Mott, as chairman of the Saskatchewan Health Services Planning Commission, is a logical choice as deputy minister. These reports add that the provincial government wants closer relations between the planning commission and the Department of Public Health.

No Daily Insulin In New Treatment Given Diabetics

ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—Nearly all people with diabetes can live normal healthy lives without daily shots of insulin, declares a report released at the week-end by the American Chemical Society.

With a new treatment based on diet, 99 per cent of adults with diabetes can get along without insulin, said Dr. Michael Somocyi, biochemist of the Jewish Hospital of St. Louis.

The others may need only a small amount of insulin daily.

Too much insulin can be dangerous, poisoning a diabetic and making him chronically ill through a chemical tug-of-war in his body, Dr. Somocyi declared.

This way to freedom from insulin was found during a 14-year study of 4,000 diabetic patients in St. Louis. The main basis is a diet that keeps body weight at the ideal level for a person's age and build. It allows enough starches, sugars and proteins, but cuts down on fats.

Hulk Of Ss. Noronic At Toronto Pier

As a night of death turned day, the fire-gutted Noronic listed sharply, then righted herself as her stern filled with water and her keel settled to the bottom of the slip in Toronto harbor. This shot was taken when firemen brought the blaze under control and began the grim task of recovering bodies.—(CP Photo).

14 Violent Deaths

TORONTO (CP) — Three deaths in an automobile crash in Ontario and two in a Quebec smash-up brought to 14 the number of week-end traffic fatalities reported in eastern Canada. Altogether, but in addition to the large number of lives lost in the Noronic ship fire at Toronto, there were 22 violent deaths. A Canadian Press compilation early today showed 16 fatalities in Ontario, four in Quebec and two in Nova Scotia.

Brisk Buying, Selling At City Brokerage Offices

Victoria brokerage offices were busy from the opening today as a result of news of devaluation of the British pound. Both buying and selling was brisk. Canadian gold stocks jumped between 10 and 15 per cent during the first few hours of trading.

General attitude of Victoria investors seemed to be one of optimism. The immediate situation could change greatly at any time, however, and with realization of this, investors have many underlying doubts.

Devaluation of the Canadian dollar to some extent was expected, the trend of business indicated.

Many investors here expected the drop would be between 5 and 15 per cent. A 10 per cent drop was considered most likely.

One investor reviewing morning reports summed up the financial picture with the comment: "This is the start of something."

Just what the "something" will amount to and just how far Canada will become involved were questions which were being given serious consideration.

Many Deer Bagged On Opening Week-End; No Island Accidents

With many hundreds on the game trails of Vancouver Island during the week-end for the opening onslaught against the buck deer herd and blue grouse coveys, indications up to a late hour this morning were that no hunting accidents of a serious nature had occurred. There was one rumor of a hunter on the lower island getting a pellet in the eye, but this could not be confirmed immediately.

Although no deer shooting is allowed in the Sayward Forest area of Campbell River and Sayward this year, the reports spoke of a heavy invasion of that country to seek grouse bags.

In regard to the lower end of the island, game wardens reported that many hunters scored their first deer prizes.

Island game boss, Inspector George Stevenson, up at Hillcrest Sunday, reported quite a lot of hunters in action.

Chief complaint of hunters he encountered was that the rain had scattered the blues. He said there were quite a few scored limit bags of the birds and that most got a few. The inspector said most of the limit bags were collected by those hunters who took to the higher levels.

Game Wardens Bob Sinclair and Joseph Jones reported checking about 35 deers on cars between 3.30 and 9 yesterday afternoon and evening at a check point. "They were good size and in good shape, they reported.

British-Made Goods Likely To Drop In Price In Canada

A revision in prices of goods from the United Kingdom as the result of the drastic devaluation of the British pound, was expected by Victoria businessmen today.

The price of cars, clothing, china and machinery was expected to drop in some cases by at least 30 per cent unless action was taken by the Canadian government to devaluate the Canadian dollar or impose duties on goods from the United Kingdom.

Businessmen said they were awaiting word from eastern manufacturers on price changes of British-made goods.

"It is impossible to make a snap judgment at the moment," said one businessman. "There is too much involved in the devaluation of the British pound."

Bernt Balchen Hops Over Top Of World On Good Will Flight

OSLO (UP)—A U.S. Air Force C-54 Skymaster piloted by Col. Bernt Balchen, landed here Sunday after a 4,000-mile flight from Alaska over the North Pole.

Balchen, Norwegian-American Arctic explorer and aviator, made the trip in 22 hours and 30 minutes. He is stationed in Alaska with the U.S. Air Force.

(Air Force circles in Washington said such flights now were considered "routine" because so many B-29 Superfortresses have flown over the North Pole. It was speculated that Balchen may have made the flight as a good will gesture to Scandinavia.)

Balchen, who led U.S. ski-equipped cargo planes into Norway during the war, timed his arrival to coincide with the aviation show in Oslo. Until he left for the United States a year ago, Balchen was a director of the Norwegian Air Lines here.

MAJOR OPERATION

THE "MISSING FACTOR" IN THE WASHington economic talks has now been produced. Many close observers of the recent British-Canadian-American conference to aid the United Kingdom's finances had wondered at the extent of Sir Stafford Cripps' resultant optimism in view of the restricted nature of the decisions. While the ten points summing up the agreements reached by the conferees were in some cases fundamental, and in every case helpful, it seemed that some more drastic step would be necessary if the recovery of Britain were to be ensured. That step, described by the British Chancellor of the Exchequer yesterday as "the most serious" his government has ever contemplated, has now been taken—the devaluation of the pound.

Its repercussions will be many, with considerable hardship imposed on individuals living in dollar countries who depend on income from the United Kingdom. But basically it means that Britain will be able to sell more cheaply to the United States, thereby increasing her dollar earnings. It is true that it will become correspondingly expensive for Britain to buy in the United States, and this had been one of the main arguments against devaluation. Canadian and American delegates to the Washington conference, however, appear to have persuaded Sir Stafford and his advisors that they will gain more by the former than they will lose by the latter. In essence, a pair of British shoes that sold for one pound formerly cost an American buyer $4.03. The American will now be able to buy them for $2.80, although the price to British consumers remains one pound. On the other hand, American wheat, at, say, $1 a bushel, which formerly cost British importers five shillings, will now cost them seven shillings. That is the reason why Sir Stafford has warned that the price of bread in Britain must go up.

The British action has been taken reluctantly. The Pound Sterling has traditionally been a world standard of trade and exchange and any suggestion of demotion from that position by the American dollar constitutes a blow to prestige. But more than that is the disruption of financial dealings throughout the world. Within an hour or two of Sir Stafford's announcement, eleven other countries—within the Sterling bloc or closely associated with it—devalued their currencies. Since post-war currencies are artificially supported by agreement and decree, the present British move is in reality only a recognition of true market conditions. It is a major operation, but the patient has a major illness, and nothing short of this would likely have succeeded. The cheapening of British exports to the United States should enable goods to enter that country to compete favorably with American products—even without any tariff reductions. To this extent Britain has therefore borne the main share of the financial reorganization. Although under the terms of the Washington conference American customs "procedures" are to be eased, it is not likely there will be any extensive lowering of tariff walls with the United States 1950 elections looming so near.

PEARSON FOR ANOTHER JOB?

THERE IS TALK IN HIGH DIPLOMATIC circles that Hon. L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs, may be "drafted" to act as chairman of the Political Committee of the General Assembly of the United Nations when it meets for its fourth session tomorrow. This able and much-traveled public servant of Canada, of course, will head the Dominion's delegation to Lake Success. Whether his official duties, with the 21st Parliament in session at Ottawa, will permit him to take on this difficult and onerous task remains to be seen. But it is no secret that Mr. Pearson will be exposed to every possible argument calculated to impress upon him the desirability of his acceptance of the job—second in importance to that of President of the General Assembly.

Regardless of the pressure that may be put on Mr. Pearson, and notwithstanding the significance of the deliberations of the Political Committee, the meeting of the General Assembly at this time lends emphasis to a collection of problems which call for meticulous study and well-reasoned decisions. For example, we know there are many diverse issues on the 60-point agenda that, in one way or another, will reflect the world organization's power to make peace and strengthen its machinery. All of which is well known; but it is safe to say that the average individual will watch with more than usual interest the manner in which the representatives of the Soviet Union comport themselves at Lake Success and Flushing Meadows. Spokesmen for the Kremlin and the Communist oligarchy—with its branches in the capitals of nations behind the Iron Curtain—can be depended upon to adopt the political and ideological formula laid down by the head office of the Cominform in Moscow.

It will be necessary for the General Assembly, however, to direct its thoughts toward such explosive matters as the situation in Greece. For as long as the United Nations holds a watch-dog commission in that part of the world, it will have to make it abundantly clear that no armies will be permitted to invade Greek territory. Similarly it is presumed that a notice will go forth that the U.N. commission in Korea intends to exert still greater vigilance in respect to guerrilla inroads which increasingly threaten the 38th parallel dividing the Assembly-recognized south from the communist-controlled north. It may even clamp a similar watch on internal communist activity now weakening the southern government. One may question the positive achievements of the two commissions, but one cannot deny that they are keeping the conflicts from openly embroiling the big powers. When the border fighting subsides, they are empowered to negotiate the terms of friendly relations.

One could go on recounting the dozens of problems with which the United Nations General Assembly will be called upon to deal. The majority of the member states would agree on those wide general principles that are calculated to strengthen this world organization. But behind it all is the shadow of the Russian bear—the inscrutable physiognomies of the Vishinskys and the Gromykos, et al. Delegates from the Kremlin may say only what their chiefs in Moscow approve, and so far the opposition to western desire and obvious world needs has been strong and unrelenting.

STEEL FOUNDATION

THE IMPORTANCE OF STEEL IN OUR daily lives is reflected in the importance of steel-making in the industrial life of this continent, and of the United States in particular. Consequently when the continued employment of 929,000 members of the United Steel Workers union is threatened by labor-management disagreement, it is a matter of deep concern to the American nation at large. And the importance of stability in the steel industry goes far beyond the manufacture of that commodity, for wage patterns in steel are likely to be copied in several other major industrial spheres—coal, automobiles and electricity for example—which together employ more than 2,000,000 workers, and thus set the pace for the entire country.

At the present moment the matter of a wide-spread steel strike hangs in abeyance, while management and the U.S.W. debate the results of a Presidential fact-finding board which recently returned a compromise recommendation. Briefly, the board advised against any wage increase at the present time, on the ground that the cost of living had not appreciably increased since the last round of raises. On the other hand, it sided with the union in its demand for social insurance and pension grants by companies, although on a smaller scale than the labor group had requested. The initial reaction of both parties to the dispute appeared to be favorable, although final decisions are yet to be made.

The point at issue, however, would seem to be even greater than the setting of a wages-hours-and-conditions pattern for United States industry. It might be summed up as a question of whether that industrial mechanism is going to continue to function or not, for widespread strikes at this time could have very serious effects. Interdependency is the keynote of modern industry. A strike in coal mining, if continued long enough, halts steel and railway transportation. A railway strike brings steel and coal production to a standstill; while a steel walkout affects almost every other industry even remotely connected with, or dependent upon, production of that metal. Thus it is that the workers of one industry, in deciding on their course of conduct in wage negotiations, are really deciding the fates of their fellow workers in other lines of activity, and even in other countries. And that is a responsibility that should be carried with a full realization of interests that are more than immediate, and benefits that are more than short-term.

PAST VERSUS PRESENT

UNITED STATES AUTHORITIES INterested in the installation in Britain of the latest omni-directional range system to aid aerial navigation have expressed amazement at the opposition they have encountered. Historical societies, bird watchers clubs, village councils and other bodies have raised objections at various points to the erection of the tall towers required by the improved aviation aid. The towers must be raised on advantageously situated hilltops, but this often conflicts with already-established interests. Construction of a given tower, for instance, might necessitate cutting down a tree which local history marked as that from which some famous figure was hanged in an earlier era. Naturally, objections to its removal would be many and forceful. And so it goes.

One cannot help but admire the people of a country in which tradition and historical association play so prominent a part. Such sentiments are a strong factor in the building of stability and national confidence. A history-conscious nation is an enduring nation. But the unfortunate fact is that the so-called progress of modern civilization makes little allowance for the treasures of the past. New problems have arrived, and if the erection of the towers are necessary to save the lives of air passengers and crews, then ultimately they will go up. But the "improvement" will not be without its heavy cost in intangible wealth, and one wonders at times if it will, in the long run, be found to have been a bargain.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP from Washington

ACTION IN ASIA

ONE SIGNIFICANT unreported disagreement arose in the vitally important talks on Asia policy last week between Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. There was general agreement on policy in Japan, Southeast Asia, and India. Moreover, contrary to report, there was no dispute about Hongkong. Bevin flatly told Acheson that the British meant to defend Hongkong if it is attacked, but that there is no present intention of asking for American help.

However, Bevin refused to go along with Acheson on economic policy in China. The State Department wants the power in effect to cut off China's trade with the West. The British, with their vast holdings in China, want only to control the shipment of war materials and munitions. This disagreement, which deeply affects Anglo-American policy in Asia, clearly springs from the desperate economic plight of the British. It will end only when the threat of British economic collapse is ended.

YET MORE really significant than the outcome of the Acheson-Bevin talks is the simple fact that a positive and vigorous American policy in Asia is now at last being evolved, thanks to the efforts of able Ambassador-at-large Philip Jessup. Jessup was recently assigned by Acheson to examine the whole range of American Far Eastern policy, and to come up with a series of recommendations for American action.

The work of Jessup and his staff is still in the thinking stage, and there is a wide gulf between thinking and action. But at least the thinking has been intelligent and imaginative. One project which Jessup and his staff have been considering calls for an American supreme commander for the battle for Asia.

THROUGH no efforts of its own, the State Department will now get a discretionary kitty of $75 million under the Military Aid Program, to fight this battle. If this money is to be spent in dribs and drabs, without any coherent plan or central authority, it will be wasted. It is proposed instead that a man of great stature be found to spend the money where it will do the most good. He could use it to strengthen the centres of resistance to the Communists in China, or to arm non-Communists in Southeast Asia, or to promote American interests in such other ways as he saw fit.

Moreover, he would control all American trade with China. And within very broad limits he would have the authority to take whatever action seemed necessary to promote the central American objective in Asia—a grouping of sovereign national states strong enough to withstand the Kremlin's drive for power. Obviously this project would cut down the authority of the State Department's Far Eastern division, which is therefore throwing cold water on the idea.

JESSUP himself has not finally decided in favor of the idea, nor has Acheson. Much will depend on whether a man can be found with the ability and reputation necessary to do the job. As always these days, when there are difficult and vitally important jobs to be done, the advocates of the project have settled on the name of former Under Secretary of State Robert Lovett. Lovett may be sounded out by Jessup himself when Jessup goes to New York for the United Nations meetings.

At any rate, whether or not it comes to anything in the end, it is something new under the sun to find bold and positive plans for action in Asia emerging from the State Department. Jessup and his staff have also come up with another important idea—a major policy statement by President Truman. Acheson and Truman have been discussing this matter, and as a result the statement may soon be made.

WHAT IS PROPOSED is a brief, simple statement, containing three major points. First, the United States strongly favors genuinely independent regimes in Asia. Second, the United States will strongly oppose Communist regimes, since these are not genuinely independent, but a new form of imperialism. Third, the United States is determined to do everything possible to help raise the living standards of the Asiatic people.

The real purpose of the proposed statement is simply to reassure the Asiatic leaders that the United States has no intention of abandoning Asia, as most Asiatics now believe. If it accomplishes this purpose, the statement will have a deeply important psychological effect.

ALL THIS MEANS real progress, even though the inertia of the State Department where Asia is concerned may defeat Jessup's efforts in the end. As the disagreement on China suggests, any American effort will also be defeated if the British crisis is allowed to lead to British collapse. For Asia can only be saved if the United States and Britain work in close partnership, and a powerless partner is a useless partner. Even so, there are signs that the long paralysis of American policy in Asia may be coming to an end, and that at least is something to be thankful for.

Only Sea Birds For Company

From the BBC London Letter

OFF the northeast coast of England lie the Farnes. Those who see these low islands at high tide see 15, those who are there at low tide may find 30. Some are only one and a half miles away from the mainland but others are five miles out and all must be approached with the greatest circumspection, for it is by no means easy to land on their rocky coasts.

FIERCE GALES

The Farnes, isolated and remote, are washed by fierce gales in winter and in summer covered with a thick cushiony growth of white sea campion and pink thrift. They are uninhabited now, except for the bird watchers who are landed on Brownsman and Inner Farne in May and stay there for three months. If it were not for them egg collectors and other inquisitive persons would surely molest the colonies of seabirds which come to the Farnes every year to breed.

The watchers on Brownsman have the loneliest time for no one is allowed to land on this island which gives nesting space to thousands of birds, amongst them puffins, kittiwakes, eider ducks and the rare roseate terns.

ISLAND VISITORS

The watchers on Inner Farne are not so isolated for visitors come to this nearer island by motor boat from Seahouses, to see the birds and also to see St. Cuthbert's Chapel.

Nothing is known of the wild and rocky Farnes before the seventh century, and it was St. Cuthbert, once a Northumbrian shepherd boy, who made them famous. He retired to Inner Farne in 676 and died there 11 years later. Hermits and monks occupied Inner Farne for many hundreds of years and a monastic house was founded there in the thirteenth century. The chapel built on this windswept little island is still in good repair, though the tower nearby, built in 1494, is rather shaky.

RESCUED PASSENGERS

The chapel is furnished with choir stalls and other old oak brought from Durham Cathedral. It also contains a memorial to Grace Darling, who with her father, then keeper of the lighthouse on the Longstone, one of the Farne Islands, rowed in a fierce gale to another one, Harcar, where the "Forfarshire" was wrecked, and rescued nine of its passengers.

Taxed For What?

By JOSEPH L. RUTLEDGE

THE STARTLING suggestion that a license fee of $2.50 per radio owner is quite inadequate to produce the sort of programs the CBC was organized to provide is like a dash of cold water to the average citizen. Yet, in an address some time ago, Mr. A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC frankly announced that the commission would either have to slash its present services severely or get more money for them, presumably by taxation.

THREE PROGRAMS

Mr. Dunton further suggested that to provide three national programs across Canada, which he thought would be the ideal policy, would cost about $7.50 per radio owner per program. This ideal program would thus cost $22.50 per radio owner without making any provision against the necessary curtailments that he forecast.

That raises again the question whether the people of Canada are as responsive to the CBC as it was anticipated they would be.

We think it is a reasonable assumption that few taxes are so generally resented as the radio tax, that few are so difficult to collect, that there is no other tax that the average honest citizen is so ready to overlook. That certainly isn't because of the amount. We have accepted without protest taxes that were immeasurably more severe.

TRIED SINCERELY

The truth of the matter is that, after 13 years of trying, the CBC has neither won many friends nor influenced many people in Canada.

Give them a large "E" for effort. They have tried, and we believe sincerely. If then, this is the case why should they not enjoy a larger popularity?

We think that the main reason is that they come under the average man's resentment at being pushed around by government agencies that reputedly are meant to serve not to push him.

We think that, if the CBC has failed to satisfy the public that it is getting more than full value for its money, it is because the aura of government, the aura of paternalism has fallen upon it. It decides, not what the public wants, but what it should want, and as the public has to pay for it anyway there's not much to worry about.

Perhaps that is why the most popular Canadian programs on the air are those produced by private interests, whether carried on CBC or independent stations.

CANNOT UNDERSTAND

Realizing this, "John Public" finds it difficult to understand why he is being taxed for something he could have anyway, and in a form very much more to his own liking, because the people who would produce it could serve their own purposes only by first interesting their public.

Not A Matter For Bargaining

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

IT WOULD BE FRUITLESS to speculate on what led Anatole P. Barsov, the Russian refugee flyer, to seek to return home after he and a companion had deserted the Soviet air force nearly a year ago to come to America.

There is good point, however, in delving into differences exhibited among American officials as to how Barsov's return should have been handled.

RETURNED PROMPTLY

Once it learned of his desire to go back, the State Department, on whose authority the two fliers were allowed U.S. entry in the first place, took the view Barsov should be turned over to the Russians promptly.

But army authorities in Austria wanted to detain him as a bargaining lever for the release of several Americans known to be in Russian custody in the Soviet zones of Austria and Germany.

This army attitude resulted in Barsov's being held in Austria by U.S. forces almost a week after he was flown there from the United States. Finally he was handed over to Soviet authorities on specific instructions from the State Department.

An army spokesman complained: "We did not even try to bargain Barsov's return for the return of our own people."

GRIEVOUS LACK

It seems to us this shows a grievous lack of understanding of the moral values America stands for. Barsov and his companion, Peter Pirogov, came into U.S. hands seeking political asylum and voicing a keen wish to live in America. In accord with long custom, the country happily provided that asylum. Eager Americans squired the pair through Virginia which they had expressed an especial desire to see.

Simply because Barsov underwent a change of heart and asked to be sent home, that doesn't mean the United States must suddenly regard him as a chattel to be used callously in trading for Americans who happen to have been seized by the Russians. Such an attitude would do violence to the whole spirit in which he was welcomed to our soil.

Furthermore, the Americans now in Soviet custody are being held improperly and illegally. As much as we want them back, we cannot stoop to bartering in human beings to get them. Those Americans belong on U.S.-occupied soil as a matter of right. To indulge in trading would be a low performance on the Russian level.

DESERVED REBUKE

Secretary of State Dean Acheson delivered a deserved rebuke to the army when he said the United States does not engage in such practices. By what stretch of the imagination could we have defended holding Barsov, a man who had committed no crime but merely wanted to go home?

The army's attitude certainly reflected warm-hearted consideration for the seized Americans. But it overlooked moral fundamentals that democracy can never afford to ignore.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

THE urgency of concluding a Japanese treaty has developed the startling possibility that the democracies may get ahead with the job without Russia unless a quick solution of the disagreement with Moscow can be found.

Should this happen it would of course mean two distinct treaties—another stone added to the wall dividing the totalitarian states and the democracies.

The stalemate hinges on Russia's insistence that the treaty be concluded by the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Council (Britain, the United States, Russia and France), whereas Britain and the United States insist that it be handled by the Far Eastern Commission. This commission comprises the 11 countries that fought against Japan—the United States, Britain, Canada, Russia, France, China, the Philippines, the Netherlands, Australia, India and New Zealand.

The Russian attitude may be explained largely by the fact that the veto is permitted in council proceedings, whereas it is not used in the commission.

On one thing there appears to be unanimity—the need of getting ahead with the job.

The necessity of early action was emphasized recently by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Allied Commander in Japan, for the second time.

THE PROBLEM

On top of that the conversations in Washington last week between Foreign Secretary Bevin and State Secretary Acheson of the United States reached the conclusion that a Japanese treaty is long overdue.

And Foreign Minister Vishinsky of Russia, who is heading the Russian delegation to the new United Nations meeting opening tomorrow in New York, is expected to press for a Japanese treaty—to be made by the Foreign Ministers' Council.

Acheson has indicated that Britain and the United States may try again to end the two-year-old deadlock over who should draft the treaty. And what if this effort fails?

As the signs now read, the question then will arise whether the Allies represented on the Far Eastern Commission, headed by Britain and the United States, shall go ahead and make a treaty with Japan without Russia. Certainly London and Washington can't be expected to agree that Far Eastern countries like Australia and the Philippines, which had more to do with the Japanese War than did Russia, shall be left out of the treaty-making.

CLIPPED at RANDOM

NAZI MAP

Ottawa Journal

A letter from an International Refugees Organization officer in Frankfurt, Germany, comes in an envelope made out of old German war maps. The back of the maps were plain white paper the maps themselves now being the inside of the envelope.

Perhaps not precisely a silk purse out of a sow's ear, but it is plainly a nobler thing they are being used for than Hitler had intended.

DANGEROUS TOYS

Ottawa Citizen

The day when an air pistol or rifle could be considered a harmless toy is past. Many of them are now so well made that at close quarters they can kill. They are therefore almost as dangerous as weapons employing explosives. To avoid future tragedies, legislation might well be enacted making it an offence for anyone under a certain age, say 18, to possess them.

PERIL POINTS

Christian Science Monitor

Do Americans really want British producers to lower their costs so they can compete in the American market and earn dollars? Or will they lift new tariff barriers against such efficiency? Do Americans want to expand their own export business by making it possible for other peoples to pay for those exports with their goods? Or would they rather see their friends abroad forced into Moscow's trade orbit? Do they really believe that trade is a good thing, normally taking place only when both sides benefit, or will they cling to the protectionist belief that trade can be a one-way street?

The real "peril points" in this situation will quickly appear if Americans make the wrong choices. They cannot safely pursue two diametrically opposed policies. The sooner this is made clear the better.

U.N. Assembly To Consider World Economic Problems

LAKE SUCCESS (CP)—World economic problems, previously given a secondary role in the United Nations, are slated for top billing at the fourth U.N. General Assembly.

Delegates from 59 countries who will assemble tomorrow at Flushing Meadow will be pondering the effects of devaluation as well as the political problems.

Heading the economic questions among the economic topics on the 72-item agenda is that of aid to under-developed countries.

The plans and procedures for pooling the world's technical knowledge to help the economically-backward areas have been worked out by the Economic and Social Council.

Now the Assembly will thrash out the question which President Truman raised in his inaugural address when he called for a "bold new program" of aid to under-developed countries.

The specialized agencies of the U.N. which have drawn up suggestions through which the world might multiply its production, are: The International Labor Office, World Health Organization, Food and Agriculture Organization and International Civil Aviation Organization.

All these organizations already have programs of technical assistance. The "bold new program" visualizes a vast expansion of these services.

A resolution is expected to be submitted to the Assembly which would authorize opening a special account for technical assistance to which all governments would make voluntary contributions.

If the plan is acceptable a general conference on assistance is slated to be called in New York immediately following the Assembly sessions. This conference would determine the amount of money needed and how the funds should be allotted.

Ammunition Blast In Cairo Suburb Rocks Entire City

CAIRO (AP)—Three hundred tons of old shells blew up Sunday in an ammunition dump on the outskirts of Cairo.

The blast rocked this city of 2,000,000. Minor explosions were continuing four hours later.

All Cairo's fire and police reserves joined soldiers in fighting a fire raging in the Mokkatam Hills behind the Citadel, Cairo's 1,000-year-old fortress.

The Ministry of Defence announced an unspecified number of soldiers had been wounded. It did not mention any dead.

The ministry said the army had been racing with time to move 600 tons of dangerously deteriorated ammunition out of the dump and throw it into the Mediterranean.

The ministry said the job was half completed when the remaining 300 tons exploded. The big blast set off nearby stores of other ammunition and high explosives.

Oil Output Grows

REGINA (BUP) — Production in the Lloydminster oil field is expected to increase by about 1,000 barrels a day during September.

Officials at the field attribute the expected increase to new outlets, renewal of old outlets and a relaxation of proration.

It is believed deliveries to the Moose Jaw refinery will start again about the middle of this month. Moose Jaw deliveries have been suspended since last June.

The enterprise of the individual—that's the root of progress. In every field of human activity, advancement waits . . . until somebody acts to put into effect a plan directed toward some new objective.

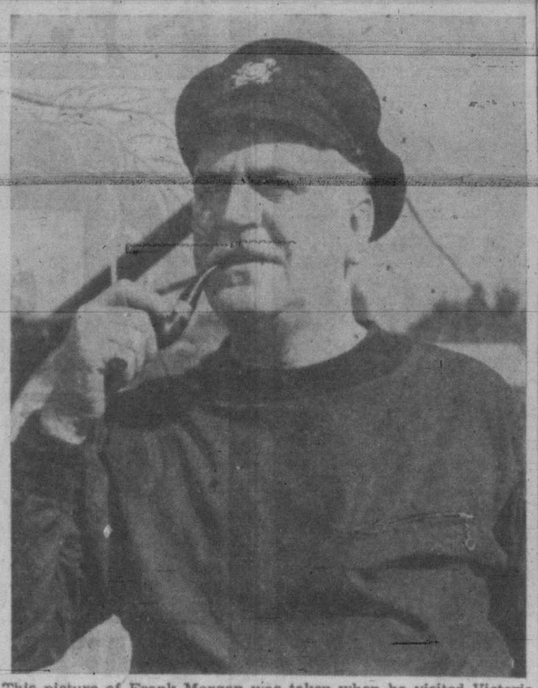
Actor Frank Morgan Dies



This picture of Frank Morgan was taken when he visited Victoria several years ago aboard his schooner, Dolphin II.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Morgan, 59, well-known screen character actor, died Sunday in his home.

Mrs. Morgan said she went to his bedroom to arouse him, found that he was not breathing, and called an inhalator squad. Efforts to revive him were unavailing.

Morgan's latest film appearance was in "The Stratton Story," in the role of a baseball scout. He was one of the veterans of the screen and had appeared in such pictures as "The Great Ziegfeld," "Wizard of Oz," "Tortilla Flat," and "White Cargo."

The actor was an ardent yachtsman. In 1947 he won the California to Honolulu yacht race in his schooner Dolphin II.

Morgan's real name was Frank Wupperman. He was born in New York City June 1, 1890, and appeared on the stage in his youth.

The actor started out as a brush salesman, but soon decided to follow in the footsteps of his brother, actor Ralph Morgan.

Logger Dies At Port Alice Hospital

NANAIMO — Carl Stoa, 40-year-old British Columbia logger, died in Port Alice Hospital following an accident, according to a radio message received by Provincial Police here.

The report said Stoa sustained a fractured skull while working as powderman. The accident occurred at the Holberg logging operations of the B.C. Pulp Company. An inquest will be held.

Squids progress in three ways: Crawling by use of tentacles; swimming forward, by use of fins; and swimming backward, by expelling water from the mantle cavity.

Taxi Driver Slain

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — The body of taxi driver Harold B. Hamilton, 39, was found behind a clump of bushes near the city limits here Sunday. There was a bullet-hole in the neck.

Acting Police Chief James Hutcheon said Hamilton had been murdered. No trace of a weapon was found.

A passer-by found the body at 2 p.m. The taxi which Hamilton operated was parked about 100 feet away with the motor still running.

Fellow drivers said Hamilton had picked up a fare shortly after 11 a.m. and on the car's two-way radio had told the dispatcher he was going to a street in the west end, about two miles from the spot where the body was found.

To Start Work On New $5,000 Float For Sooke Village

SOOKE — Construction of a new fishermen's float, authorized by the federal department of public works, is expected to start immediately, it was learned here today. The new float is expected to cost approximately $5,000.

Public works officials have instructed K. W. Morton of New Westminster, district engineer for British Columbia, to proceed with the work. The job will be carried out by day labor, and consequently there will be no need to call for tenders.

The present float is inadequate to meet present needs and will be replaced by one which will be considerably larger. It will be constructed at a slightly-changed position from the location of the present one.

To Organize Dramatic Society At Cobble Hill

J. Turnley and L. A. Murphy were instructed to attend a meeting of the Cowichan and Gulf Islands Zone Council on Sept. 23, in the Cowichan Branch Hall, Duncan.

Not Opposed

VATICAN CITY (Reuter)—Authoritative Vatican sources said Saturday the Roman Catholic Church is not opposed to painless childbirth. The sources said some Protestant theologians condemned painless birth through formalistic interpretation of words in the Bible referring to women bearing in pain.

MOTHER NEEDS A VACATION WITHOUT THE CHILDREN

It is one of the little ironies of life that the one individual who most needs a vacation seldom gets it. That's mother. All the remainder of the family get tired and need a change and rest and diversion, but mother is supposed to get all the recreation she requires in slaving for the remainder of the family and seeing that they have a good time. Yet mother's work is the hardest, the most monotonous, the most never-ending in the world. There is no union card and six-hour day for her. She doesn't even get laid off on a strike.

Of course, in well-to-do families mother gets an alleged vacation when she takes the children and goes off to spend a month or so in the country, where she has to work 10 times as hard as she did at home because there are no city conveniences and no market handy right around the corner. Mother always returns from these holidays looking as if she had been dragged through a keyhole yet she hasn't had a thing to do but to keep a lot of bored children amused and nurse them through spells of ivy poisoning and cuts and bruises and too much greeen fruit, and run a free roadhouse for her friends and their friends, who just happened to be motoring by and knew she would be so glad to cook them an extra meal.

UNENDURABLE ANGUISH

Furthermore, it is popularly believed that a mother can never get enough of her children's society, and that to separate her from them for even an instant would cause her unendurable anguish.

Never was there a greater mistake in the world. No matter how much a mother loves her children, no matter how willingly she sacrifices herself for them, in time she gets fed up on them. They get on her nerves until she feels as if she would scream if she had to answer another question, and that she would lie down and die if she had to get up and hunt for another cap or baseball or hair ribbon, and that she could choke the next little voice that cried "Mother." It is then, when mothers begin to pick on their children and say "don't" to everything they do, that they need a vacation.

And they need this vacation away from their children, not with them. They need to go off by themselves, where they can be themselves instead of just the children's mother; where they can put on a pretty dress without thinking how the baby will muss it; where they can get a good night's sleep without keeping an ear open for a call for a drink and one eye open to see if little Sally has kicked the cover off; where they can order a meal without first considering if it has enough spinach and carrots in it to furnish vitamins for the children, where they can take a walk without having to hold the baby's hand and having Junior pulling on their skirts.

Two weeks, or even one week, of a vacation like this would straighten out the kinks in mother's nerves and give her a new perspective on her job and make her see that bringing up a family is the most glorious and worthwhile career a woman can follow, instead of the greatest drudgery. It would give her fresh patience and more wisdom in dealing with her children and change her from a nagging tyrant into a pal.

Of course, every regular mother wants to be with her children most of the time, just as a man wants to be at his business most of the time, but she needs a break from the regular grind even as a man does, and a vacation from her children would increase her efficiency, just as much as it increases a man's efficiency in his business.

Most mothers would say that this idea of mothers taking a vacation is a fine theory, but that it is something that can't be done. That no one could take their places. That they have no one to leave the children with.

But that is all nonsense. None of us are absolutely necessary in the scheme of things, and when mother works and frets herself to death, some relative or some middle-aged woman whose own children have flown the home nest or a trained child specialist is found as a substitute. So why not get Aunt Sally or Cousin Sue or Mrs. Brown or a capable nurse from the baby hospital to take mother's place for a few days and keep mother from a nervous breakdown or out of the cemetery?

Lougheed-Fisher Newlyweds On Honeymoon Plane Trip

William Lucas Hardisty Lougheed and the former Joan Fisher, married Saturday at 6 p.m., left by plane for the mainland, en route to United States on their honeymoon trip.

Rev. A. E. Whitehouse officiated at the late afternoon rites held in Metropolitan United Church.

Tall baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums set the wedding scene for the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fisher, 1520 Regents Place, and groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Lougheed, 2830 Murray Drive.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of creamy satin, enriched with seed pearls and crystal beads, and fashioned with graceful skirt fully en train. Clouds of misty white net in the bridal veil, edged in silken lace, were caught to her hair with a coronet of seed pearls and crystal beads, and in her bouquet the bride carried pale pink roses.

Miss Jean Brophy was maid of honor. Her taffeta gown in deep yellow was enhanced with overskirt of delicate grey chiffon and she carried toning gladioli in her bouquet.

Misses Madeleine Apperson and Pearl Anderson, as bridesmaids, were similarly gowned in deep pink and in blue satin, misted with overskirts of grey marquisette. They carried pale yellow gladioli.

The groom was attended by John Barnard as best man. James Williams and James Fisher were ushers.

A reception followed in the lower lounge, Empress Hotel, where W. S. Campbell gave the toast to the bride's future happiness.

Mrs. Fisher, mother of the bride, selected a lime green costume with overskirt of brown nylon net, matching brown velvet hat, for the occasion, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Lougheed, wore a black velvet ensemble with complementary hat trimmed in osprey feathers.

When the newlyweds left for the mainland, the bride wore a teal blue suit, with grey English model topcoat and small grey hat.

Orange Blossoms, Bell For Indian Brides At Fort George

Girls who graduated from the Indian School at Fort George, will have all the bridal trimmings when they come to the church to be wed.

British Columbia Diocesan Board of the Anglican W.A. at the first meeting of its fall season in St. Paul's, Esquimalt, learned the Girls' Auxiliary had sent a wedding bell, orange blossoms and brooch for use of brides who were graduates of the school. Mrs. F. Goodwin, secretary of the girls' group, gave the report.

Bales of clothing, including 96 girls' dresses, 51 sweaters, 25 bedspreads and many other articles, including Christmas gifts were sent in a parcel to the school at Alert Bay, according to report of Mrs. A. Roach, Dorcas secretary. A set of altar linen was sent to Mesachie Lake.

Mrs. H. C. Horth, social service secretary, told the meeting six more parcels had been sent to clergy in England, from where many grateful letters were received. She spoke also of the success of Camp Columbia this summer.

Twenty-eight sacks of reading matter were dispatched to the Columbia Coast Mission and 20 cartons of magazines to the Seamen's Institute, Mrs. F. E. L. Philp, magazine secretary, reported.

Missionary work being done in the rapidly growing community of Lake Cowichan district was discussed by Miss B. P. Foster of Crofton. An appeal for canvassers for the Community Chest was made by Mrs. Hopkins.

Mrs. B. P. Harding, second vice-president, read a letter from Miss Forestell in Japan, in which the latter gave an account of conditions there and referred to the death of Miss Alice Cox, sister of Miss M. E. Cox of St. John's Church. Members stood in silent tribute.

The retreat for women held in July at Duncan was reported by Miss D. Mitchell. She announced a "quiet day" for Sept. 30 from 10.30 at St. Mary's, Oak Bay.

Mrs. G. W. Baugh-Allen welcomed new members and opening prayers were led by Mrs. G. R. Hammond. Mrs. E. Kennedy read the scripture. Reports were given by Mrs. S. G. Wilson, treasurer, and Mrs. G. J. Harris. Canon H. H. Creal held a brief devotional service.

Storey, 3240 Albion Street. Games were played and refreshments served with Mrs. Storey and Miss G. Rymer assisting the hostess as serviteurs. Invited were Evelyn Storey, Mary Storey, Joan Bosher, Keith Bosher, Douglas Fraser, Ralph Storey and F. Thomas.

Of interest in this city was the marriage in Montreal, Sept. 14, between Miss Olive Mary, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Barrington Foote of Burnaby, B.C., and Mr. J. W. F. "Wendy" Tolmie, eldest son of the late Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, former Premier of British Columbia, and Mrs. Tolmie. The newlyweds will visit in Ottawa, New York and Victoria before leaving in November for Jedda, Saudi Arabia, where Mr. Tolmie has been connected with a gold-mining company for the past eight years.

Ex-Wren Officer Has Varied Career In 13 Years Away From Victoria

Victoria has an old appeal that lasted through 13 exciting years for Margaret Mackie, who arrived back in the city from London two weeks ago.

From a quiet office in the Legislative Buildings to a post, in hectic occupied Germany, with job stops at British Columbia House, and service in wartime London as a W.R.C.N.S. officer in between, Miss Mackie has seen much of the world since she left Victoria in 1936.

Her travels behind her for the present, she plans to settle down for a while in her home town, where she lives with her mother, Mrs. A. R. Mackie, 376 Beach Drive.

"I don't think there is another city in the world where you come in the front door as you do in Victoria; it was a welcome sight as I came in the harbor," said Miss Mackie in an interview today. "Most places, you enter through the city's seamier side."

The attractive brunette, trim in a tailored, chalk-striped gray suit, told of serving as assistant to W. A. McAdam, agent general for B.C. at British Columbia, from 1936 to 1940.

"In those days before the war, we gave out a great deal of information on conditions in Canada, with many Britishers interested in emigration," she recalled. "I loved the work and we certainly met most interesting people."

AMONG FIRST WRENS

Returning to Canada in 1940, Miss Mackie was one of the first members of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service, when it organized in 1942 and as administration officer, took the first draft of W.R.C.N.S. personnel overseas in August, 1943.

Taking her discharge in England, she joined the British Foreign Office in Germany and for the past three years was with the export branch of the Export-Import Agency which dealt with all exports and imports from and to Germany.

Miss Mackie remained in Germany for four years with her headquarters for the last 18 months at Frankfurt.

"Conditions improved enormously once the currency reform in the British and American zone was undertaken in western Germany," she said. "Up to then there had been plenty of marks but nothing to buy.

"Consequent upon currency reform, when holdings of Reichsmarks were converted in the new Deutschmarks at the rate of DM 1 for RM 10, the shops were suddenly filled with goods and everyone rushed to buy the things they badly needed but hadn't seen for more than three years."

HEAVY BUYING ENDS

The buying spree, she said, lasted for seven months but since the end of last year, there has been much less spending and retailers are finding it difficult to dispose of their goods.

"Certain basic foodstuffs are still rationed, but otherwise controls have been lifted," according to Miss Mackie.

"The Germans have been working hard on rebuilding in so far as they are able financially," she said. "Money is scarce and interest rates are as high as 10 per cent.

"Housing is one of the major problems, not only to replace buildings destroyed during the war, but also to house the millions of German expellees who have flocked to Western Germany from Russian zones and other areas, and whose settlement is one of Germany's major problems."

Living in the shadow of the Berlin airlift, Miss Mackie and her co-workers did not lack for excitement. The main airports were around Frankfurt.

Following completion of her work in Germany, she had a two-week leave renewing friendships in London, which she considers a second home.

"London looks brighter and the people have a greater variety of clothes with rationing off," she said, but added: "The food situation, I am sorry to say, is still bad, with most stringent rationing."

As for Victoria, Miss Mackie is glad to be back but finds it has changed considerably with far more activity evident, than when she left 13 years ago.

Miss Margaret Mackie returns.

Latest Top London, Paris Designs To Be Seen In Fashion Show Here

A Balenciaga suit of beige wool duveteen—palm-length box jacket, slightly flared back, two flap pockets at either side, buttoned down from small turnover collar, raglan sleeves, straight slim skirt.

Christian Dior—Late afternoon dress of "uranium" grey rayon brocade—two-piece; bloused-back top has deep, plunging neckline, short turned-back cuff sleeves; skirt has full apron flounces from hips; crushed corselet belt sash of brown taffeta.

The sheath silhouette coupled with fluidity of line mark this year's models from the high fashion temples of London and Paris.

Victoria will be the third city in Canada to see this very latest in the dress designer's art, when the T. Eaton Co., Ltd., sponsor Autumn Fashions Thursday, in Empress Hotel ballroom.

Noted young models will fashion the latest at three showings. The Solarium Junior League will sponsor the afternoon showing at 2.15; the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, the 6.15 showing, and the Victoria Symphony Society, the 8.15 and final showing.

Honored names among French coutouriers, such as Fath, Dior, Schiaparelli, Jean Desses, Balmain and Carven will be represented.

From their confreres across the channel, such as Molyneux, Branca Mosca, Peter Russell, Norman Hartnell and Digby Morton, will come the finest in British fashions.

Clothes from both French and British houses have been flown straight from Paris and London. American designers will also have a place in the showing.

Termed by fashion experts a year of motion in clothes design, tunics over slim sheaths, open like shutters. Double overskirts fly open with much splash and overlapping of folds.

"Interruption," is the manner in which Fath describes his method of getting this all-important feeling of movement. Schiaparelli, another household word in the field of high fashion, obtains her motion appeal through "stop and go," method.

Stressing the semi-formal dress for evening, she has designed a short sheath with a diaphanous drape to give motion to one of the styles in the collection to be presented, Thursday.

Narrower skirts, shorter jackets, winged and swallow-tailed collars, peeled-back neckline and skirts shaped with stiffened folds, are among the features in the eye-catching shipment.

Christian Dior claims he gets motion by his "scissors" and "windmill" draping, having no preference for either the narrow or wide line, but one that is above all "supple."

Petals are the choice of top British designer Molyneux, to give the feeling of motion to everything from evening gowns to coats.

Today's Recipe

WESTERN BEAN CASSEROLE

Ingredients: 1 lb. pink or red beans; 2 medium-sized onions, chopped; 1 or 2 cloves garlic, minced; 3 tablespoons fat (preferably bacon drippings); 1 lb. ground beef; 1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce; 1 tablespoon (or more) chili powder; ½ teaspoon cumin seed and salt to taste.

Method: Wash and pick over beans. Cover with boiling water and let stand for about 3 hours. Saute onion and garlic in fat until limp and golden; add meat and cook, stirring with a fork, until meat has lost all its red color. Bring beans to a boil in the soaking water; add meat mixture and remaining ingredients; cover and cook slowly for about 3 hours, or until beans are tender. Stir now and then (avoid mashing the beans), and add more water during cooking, if necessary. When the beans are done, the rich sauce around them should be slightly thickened. If it seems too thin, remove some of the beans, mash them and stir them back into the simmering mixture. Recipe serves six to eight.

Altar Thins Ranks Of All-Girl Band

VANCOUVER (CP) — The biggest trouble with running an all-girl orchestra, Maurice Jackson will tell you, is finding replacements for the players who desert the saxophone for the sink.

Since his band—the only all-girl band in Canada—was formed in 1945, Jackson has lost 15 girls via the altar route. "And when you only carry a full complement of 11, that's quite a turnover," says leader Jackson.

The girls, all between 17 and 22, come from scattered points on the prairies and eastern Canada.

Esquimalt W.I.—Five members of the Esquimalt W.I. will attend the South Vancouver Island Institute conference at Shawnigan Wednesday. Esquimalt group will hold its fall tea Thursday afternoon at 2.30 in the guild room of St. Paul's Church. Cards will be played in the evening.

New Yorkers Visit Gaspe; Then Urge Friends To Go

NEW YORK (CP)—If you doubt the popularity of Quebec as a vacation spot, sit in the New York office of the provincial tourist information bureau and listen to the questions of 100 visitors a day.

This year it seems that everyone wants to visit Gaspe.

"You know how Americans are," shrugs brown-haired Annette Fortier, one of the two girls who advise the would-be tourists. "One visits a place, likes it, and goes home to tell others. Consequently, they all want to see it."

Miss Fortier is one reason why New Yorkers enthuse about a trip to Quebec. She is attractive and courteous, listening patiently and trying to answer all questions, no matter how strange they may sound. Her home is in Quebec City but she studied at Columbia University here before taking her present job.

"Americans have no idea of Canada's size," says Miss Fortier. "Sometimes we're asked by people who plan to stay a week in Quebec whether they can spend the rest of their 10-day vacation in Banff."

The information bureau was opened in 1940. It is in the heart of New York's own tourist district — famed Rockefeller Centre. Its acting chief is Georges Pothier. While the small staff is busiest during the summer, there is a brisk year-round interest.

"In the fall it is the sportsmen," says Miss Fortier, "and in the winter we have the skiers."

Many New York business men fly to Quebec on hunting or fishing jaunts in their private planes. At one such outing last year, there were 55 private American planes outside a well-known sports lodge.

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

Create Painting For Royal Picture

For the first time in motion picture history, an art masterpiece — a painting qualified to hang in New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art—has been created expressly to be used in a specific motion picture. The painting is Robert Brackman's portrait of Jennifer Jones, and the motion picture is "Portrait of Jennie," which opens today at the Royal Theatre.

Brackman was commissioned to paint the portrait in the early planning stages of "Portrait of Jennie," in which Miss Jones is co-starred with Cotten. The story concerns a young artist who, struggling against the strangest kind of overwhelming odds, strives to commit to canvas the beauty of an incredibly lovely girl.

New Role For Van In Oak Bay Film

Romance, adventure and an excitement-packed story of the after-fueds between Yankee and Rebel factions after the Civil War make for big entertainment in "Romance of Rosy Ridge." M-G-M's new Van Johnson starring vehicle, which opens today on the Oak Bay screen.

Van Johnson has a totally new type of characterization in this Mackinlay Kantor story of a young schoolteacher whose buddy dies while fighting with him in the Union Army, and who goes to the latter's Rebel family in Missouri and falls in love with his buddy's sister.

The wars of Genghis, Khan, Mogul ruler in Asia during the 13th century, are said to have taken a toll of 6,000,000 lives.

PLAYERS CAN'T MAKE A WRONG PLAY HERE

The other day Alexander Weiss of New York, said to me, "Bill, I suppose everybody tells you about the hard luck they have had on one hand or another. They never tell you about the hands in which they get all the breaks. If there ever was a hand in which every break was right, this is the one." He was playing with Benjamin O. Johnson of Spartanburg, S.C.

You will notice that Mr. Johnson's opening bid was one heart. With three four-card suits the rule of the better player is to bid the suit under the singleton. For example: With a singleton diamond, bid a club; with a singleton club, bid a spade. In today's hand the singleton is a spade, so you bid a heart. This will give more flexibility in the bidding of a hand.

Weiss did not bid a spade over a heart, but preferred to show that he held a five-card suit. Of course, the bid of two clubs does not necessarily say that, but when he later bid spades, this did show a minimum of five clubs and four spades. When his partner bid three no trump, Weiss did not lose any time looking for aces, but simply jumped to six clubs.

When you look at the dummy, you can see that making the contract presents many problems. However, there will be no problem if the following situations exist: If the clubs break two-two; if the finesse of the queen of clubs is right; if the jack-ten and a small spade is in one hand; if the queen-jack and a small diamond is in one hand (the ten-spot can be set up for a discard); if the ace-queen of hearts is in front of the king-jack.

Now look at the hand and you can see that everyone of these combinations actually exists. It is the type of hand in which it is almost impossible to make a wrong play.

Train Derailed

NEWTON, N.C. (UP)—A speeding passenger train of the Southern Railway plunged off its tracks early today and the Newton Hospital estimated 30 persons were injured, several critically.

The diesel engine and four cars left the track and careened into a 12-foot ditch at about 5.10 a.m. as the train approached the station here.

Most of the passengers escaped serious injury because four pullmans on the end broke loose and continued down the track.

Governor-General Endorses Chest

The Community Chest of Greater Victoria, along with the community chests of every other Canadian city has received the endorsation of Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada.

His Excellency's message has been received at Victoria Community Chest headquarters in Prince Robert House, and reads as follows:

"The Community Chest and welfare federations of Canada have united under the symbol of the red feather. It is a symbol of many services essential to a wholesome community life. It is a symbol of many campaigns in one, thus eliminating hundreds of individual appeals to the public.

"It is a symbol of democracy at work. Through your support the Red Feather campaigns, hundreds of welfare services will continue to contribute to a better community life—for while thousands benefit directly from Red Feather services, we all benefit indirectly. I sincerely urge you to exercise your democratic right to give enough for all services in your community—for all year."

Milford Haven Said Engaged To American Girl

LONDON (AP)—The 30-year-old Marquess of Milford Haven was reported today engaged to a pretty American woman, Mrs. Romaine Simpson, 27, of New York.

The marquess, best man at the wedding of his cousin, Prince Philip, to Princess Elizabeth, and Mrs. Simpson, who is socially prominent, have had their picture taken together by Baron, the court photographer. Asked for copies of the picture, Barons secretary replied:

"They'll be released generally to the press when it becomes official."

Since the war, Baron has become prominent as a photographer to the Royal Court. He took the pictures of the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip and some of the first photos of baby Prince Charles.

The marquess could not be reached for comment.

The tall, handsome marquess is considered in court circles as one of Britain's most eligible bachelors.

His name has been linked with many girls. He frequently has been in the company of Princess Margaret, and Sharman Douglas, daughter of the United States ambassador.

B.C. Dairymen Lose Through Devaluation

PORTLAND, Ore. (BUP)—British Columbia dairymen were among a group of buyers today who tossed $30,859 down the hole due to the devaluation of the British pound sterling.

The British Columbians bought into a $100,000 shipment of purebred Jersey cows from the Isle of Jersey.

The shipment of Jerseys, which was handed over to the British Columbia, Washington and Oregon dairymen, Sunday, had arrived and been paid for just a short time before the announcement of the devaluation of the British pound from $4.05 to $2.80.

The 24 head of Jerseys would have cost only $69,141 under the new pound quotation.

Rex Moss, Mt. Angel, Ore., Jersey breeder, found the silver lining among his woes, however. He said the breeders had one dividend—a calf was born while the animals were held in quarantine in New York.

Forecasts Improved Japanese Tax System

William S. Vickrey with a copy of the Shoup Mission report which kept him in Japan for five months on an extensive study of the tax system there.

A new Japanese tax structure has been designed which is free from the loopholes at present to be found in the U.S. system is the belief of William S. Vickrey, 35-year-old Victoria-born member of the seven-man mission which has just completed its study and recommendations for reform of the tax system in Japan.

The mission was headed by Dr. Carl Shoup of Columbia University, where Mr. Vickrey is a teacher in graduate economics. Mr. Vickrey at present is visiting his aunt, Miss Sara Spencer, 1040 Moss Street. He is the son of Charles V. Vickrey, founder and president of the Golden Rule Foundation, and of the former Miss Ada Spencer.

Mr. Vickrey left Tokyo a week ago today, the last man of the mission to leave Japan. He had spent nearly five months in that country.

Full of praise for the abilities of the group with which he worked on the tax study, Mr. Vickrey described some of the difficulties with which the mission was beset.

The modern type of self-assessed income tax was relatively new in Japan, he said, added to which there was the difficulty of inflation and the inexperience of many of the members of the Japanese tax administration staff.

TAKE ADVANTAGE

In addition, many of the taxpayers felt that tax officials, because of the amount of work involved in the new administration, would not be able to check up on the tax returns and so were trying to take advantage of the situation by declaring themselves liable to a lesser tax than was actually the case.

This meant, said Mr. Vickrey, that gradually the system had been getting worse.

However, because of the recommendations made to Gen. MacArthur by the mission and because of the adaptability of the Japanese, Mr. Vickrey expressed the hope that the situation would be improved.

The Japanese Minister of Finance, he said, had himself taken steps to install a supervisory system.

In addition, Mr. Vickrey believed, the mission's recommendations, if adopted, which he expected they would be, would serve to readjust the burden and to integrate the tax system so that if the taxpayer avoided one part, he would be taxed in another.

"We think we have designed a tax structure free from the loopholes that are at present in the American system," he said.

So far as his reception in occupied Japan was concerned, Mr. Vickrey said he had been prepared for a co-operative attitude but not quite prepared for what he actually had encountered.

"For the first few weeks, I went around feeling that I was there on suffrance and not wanted, but, by the time I left, I felt I was the invited guest of the Japanese."

The mission had much better co-operation from the Japanese than the 1946 mission to Puerto Rico on which he had served, he said.

JAPANESE FRANK

Mr. Vickrey found the Japanese amazingly frank, but with their own opinions. There were many cases in which the Minister of Finance definitely did not agree with the mission.

One of the points on which the finance minister did not agree was that on the matter of taxing on capital assets and income from that capital.

The mission found, said Mr. Vickrey, that the income tax rate was running as high as 85 per cent. The mission recommended that this be cut to a maximum of 55 percent with a tax of three per cent on capital assets.

The previously high income tax rate was impossible to enforce in Japan because the temptation to evade was too great, he added.

Now that its recommendations have been completed, the mission on which Mr. Vickrey served has been asked to return to Japan next year or later to inspect the success of the new tax system.

On the general situation in Japan, Mr. Vickrey observed one got the feeling the Japanese were making a great success of the occupation. He did not know of any other country in the world capable of making such an adaptation.

He felt this was partly because the Japanese had wanted a reform and partly because of their deeprooted respect for law and order.

As a sidelight of the latter, Mr. Vickrey said it was at times difficult to get the Japanese to take the initiative . . . there was often the inclination to look to the occupation authorities for authority and direction.

He saw few people who looked obviously undernourished and found them on the whole to be very cheerful . .

Mr. Vickrey felt the Russian threat gave the Japanese pause in their wanting to see the occupation forces go.

High Scoring Winger Inks Cougar Contract

One of the most prolific point-getters in the Scottish Hockey League last season is going to make a bid for a regular left wing spot with Victoria's Pacific Coast League Cougars next week.

He is Allan Senior, handsome and dapper 24-year-old Victoria settler who has been kept busy during the past few months as a salesman in one of Government Street's leading men's furnishings stores.

A native of Verdun, Que., Senior has spent the past three winters performing for the Ayr Raiders in the Scottish Ice Hockey Association. And thereby hangs this tale.

While plying his hockey trade in Scotland, Senior acquired a Scotch lass who said "yes." She had a desire to settle in Victoria and Senior brought the young lady to the island during the summer, sought out Lester Patrick, owner of the Cougars, for a tryout, and proceeded to land a summer job.

Senior attended high school in Verdun where he also played junior hockey. He served in the R.C.A.F., playing hockey on the service team in Calgary and in 1945-46 played for Lachine in the Senior Provincial League.

Then came three seasons in the Scottish circuit. And Senior scored some 60 goals and a total of more than 100 points in each of the past two winters. And the young haberdashery salesman is some shakes as a golfer who can shoot in the low 70's consistently.

PRACTICE OPENS NEXT WEEK

Senior has been added to the official roster of the Cougars and will be on hand next Monday noon when Coach Eddie Wares calls his athletes together for their first meeting.

The Victoria roster now includes 12 players. Besides Senior, two acquisitions from the Montreal Canadiens were added to the list over the week-end. The newcomers are Eddie Marineau and Jacques Deslaurier, a pair of husky young defencemen who were signed to pro contracts last season by the Habitants and assigned to the Dallas club of the United States League.

LINE-UP

The roster now includes the following:

Defence—Coach Eddie Wares, Bud James, Eddie Marineau, Jacques Deslaurier and Fiori Goegan.

Centre—Bernie Strongman.

Left Wing—Larry Thibeault, Fred Hildebrand, Joe Evans and Allan Senior.

Right Wing—George Bougie and Roy McKay.

This list is expected to be augmented within the next few days by at least half a dozen more players, four of which will come from Les Canadiens who have promised a total of eight men. Several other deals are pending and some 20 players are expected to be on hand by next Monday.

EXHIBITION OCT. 6

The Cougars will gather on Monday to be equipped and the first actual drill on ice probably will be held next Tuesday. The Cougars are slated to play an exhibition game against the Tacoma Rockets on the Memorial Arena ice on Thursday, Oct. 6, before opening the P.C.H.L. season at New Westminster Oct. 8.

The home schedule opens at the Arena on Thanksgiving day afternoon, Oct. 10, against Portland.

Gonzales Defeats Schroeder Again

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Richard (Rancho) Gonzales, a kid from the wrong side of the tracks who zoomed to the top of the world's amateur tennis pile in two years, today was ready to cash in on his ability and join the pros.

Gonzales climaxed his surge to the top Sunday with a crushing four-set win over his No. 1 foe, Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., for the Southwest Pacific title. The win, 6-3, 9-11, 8-6, 6-4, conclusively proved that it was no fluke victory the 21-year-old Gonzales scored over Schroeder Sept. 5 when he retained his national championship.

Tommy Druce Scores For United

Ray Dixon, Vancouver City netminder, was beaten to the ball by Tommy Druce of Victoria United on this play in Saturday's opening Pacific Coast Soccer League game of the season at Athletic Park, Druce heading the ball into net. It was the Victoria centre-forward's second goal of the game and put United in a 3 to 0 lead. Vancouver City later rallied to earn 4 to 4 tie. Gordie Creed, inside forward for United, is on right, with right winger Joe Travis in background.

Rainiers Drop Pair To Solons; McIrvin Wins Over Padres

Four up and seven to go the Hollywood Stars will have to stumble, fall down and break their collective legs to lose the Pacific Coast League pennant now.

The Stars, a great Sunday team all season, took a pair from San Francisco 10 to 3 and 2 to 1 Sunday while the challenging Oaklands dropped two to the lowly Los Angeles Angeles 9 to 8 and 5 to 1.

Thus, if Hollywood captures just three of its remaining series with Seattle, the Acorns must take all seven from Portland to tie. Four twin wins and the Oaks are dead period.

Sacramento took a choking two-game grip on third place with a twin win from Seattle 2 to 1 and 6 to 1. Frankie Dasso and Bob Gillespie were the winning Solon hurlers. Dasso hurled a six-hitter in the seven-inning opener while Rugger Ardizoia tossed a five-hitter in losing.

McIRWIN SCORES WIN

Portland and San Diego split their two. The Beavers took the opener 2 to 1 and the Padres the finale 4 to 2. Cal McIrvin was the winner in the opener with a four-hit job, although Tal Saltzman had to relieve in the ninth after McIrvin gave up two walks with none out.

In the second game, Al Jurisich allowed only four hits up to the seventh and last inning. Then he filled the bases with walks with one out. Padre Bob Savage relieved, allowed one hit and one run to save the game for Jurisich.

Portland and Los Angeles play a doubleheader in tonight's only games to make up for two recent rain-outs.

Nine Buck Deer Entered Here In Competition

Evidence of a marked increase in interest by the hunting fraternity in the Sylvester U-Drive Vancouver Island buck deer competition was shown during the first week-end of the 1949 open season on the fleet-foots when nine bucks were weighed in on the scales at the Douglas and Broughton Street firm.

Jack Robbins, manager of the drive-yourself firm, this morning reported that the largest weighed in had five points. Those registering deer prizes were: Ken Rainay, Pete Jackson, Pat Kyle, Steve Malovec, H. Simpson, Jack O'Hara, W. L. Stevenson, F. E. Wilcox and Reg Mercer.

This heavy entry for the week-end indicates keener competition this year than in previous years.

Former Rover Coach To Pilot Olympics

BOSTON (AP)—Freddie Metcalfe of Regina, former coach of New York Rovers, Saturday was appointed coach of Boston Olympics in the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League.

Metcalfe's appointment was announced by Walter A. Brown, president of Boston Garden. Metcalfe succeeds Hago Harrington, who has been granted a year's leave of absence because of illness.

The new Olympics coach played amateur and minor league hockey for 12 years before turning to coaching in 1938.

$250 Cash Derby Pot Won By Cowichan Man

G. W. Rendle of Cowichan Bay on Saturday weighed in a 27½-pound spring salmon to cop the $250 cash top prize in the final of Cowichan Bay Salmon Club's ladder salmon derby.

Forty-eight of the 50 anglers still holding spots on the 50-rung ladder at the end of the qualifying rounds battled it out for the cash jackpot in the closing feature of the nine-week competition, the first of its kind staged in the lower island saltchuck. Missing two were tourists who qualified during the season.

Duncan and Cowichan Bay names dominated the prize list. Second prize in the final, the $35 salmon rod, donated by the Tillicum Athletic Club, was won by Norman Bomford, Duncan, with a 26.02-pound specimen.

25 FISH BOATED

According to officials, 25 specimens were placed on the scales, a good number of them beating the 20-pound mark.

Seattle finalist present was Mrs. Bill Culliton. Other big ones weighed in included: Mrs. Dulcie Martin of the bay, 22 and 21-pounder; Mrs. J. Keir, New Westminster, 21½ pounds; Pat Frumento of the bay, 23.04 pounds; J. Gaunt of Cobble Hill, 22.02 pounds; W. Hughes of Victoria, 21.10 pounds, and H. Lawless, 23 pounds.

Hidden prizes were won by: 1, Mrs. William Barton, Cowichan Bay; 2, K. R. Griffiths, Duncan, and 3, H. R. Cavin of Cobble Hill.

Mrs. H. E. Coull, 1843 Crescent Road, Victoria, won the $50 consolation radio.

It was learned today from Lee Hallberg, club president and main push in the ladder effort, that the outstanding success at an elongated derby ensures that it will become an annual feature at the popular Cowichan Bay fishing grounds.

The lower island fishing slate is now wiped clean of events until early next month.

COHO DERBY

On Oct. 9 the bay club will stage its second annual coho derby, which will be wide open for public participation. Net profits will be turned over to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Both trained lightly yesterday, were examined by a State Athletic Commission doctor and pronounced fit. Pep, who regained the title from Sandy Saddler early this year after losing it to the New York boxer last October, has won 141 of his 144 fights and was a heavy favorite to defeat the 21-year-old New Haven fighter.

Victoria West senior soccer squad will hold a workout at Athletic Park on Wednesday night, commencing at 7. All players are asked to be on hand.

Subs Again Give Yanks Lift In Pennant Drive

By RALPH ORDEN

The outstanding feature of the New York Yankee pennant drive, aside from Joe Page, is the uncanny way that manager Casey Stengel's substitutes have come through for the injured front-liners.

Although plagued with more than 60 injured, the Yanks have paced the American League since opening day. Many times the outlook was bleak but the Yanks huffed and puffed their way to calmer seas.

The Yankee man of the hour today is Hank Bauer, strong-armed outfielder.

Joe DiMaggio, who missed the first 65 games of the season, reported at game time yesterday with a high fever. The Clipper, only regular hitting over .300, was scratched from the line-up and Bauer installed.

Bauer brought a hot bat into action and powered the Yanks to a 7 to 3 victory over Cleveland Indians. The triumph preserved the Yanks' 2½-game lead over Boston Red Sox, who mauled Chicago White Sox 11 to 5.

Bauer drove home three runs. He doubled Charley Keller home in the third to snap a 3 to 3 tie and then clinched the game with a two-run triple in the seventh.

The Red Sox met no resistance from Chicago, the Boston wrecking crew, led by Ted Williams, rammed nine runs across the plate in the first two innings.

WILLIAMS HITS PAIR

Williams blasted two homers, his 39th and 40th of the season, and drove home six huns. Vern Stephens chipped in with his 39th four-bagger. The heavy hitting allowed Ellis Kinder to coast to his 11th straight victory and 21st of the season.

Solid hitting also sparked the National League's front-running St. Louis Cardinals to a 15 to 3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. Home runs by Ron Northey, Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter featured a 18-hit onslaught. Northey's blow came with the bases loaded in the third inning.

PROTECT LEAD

Th victory protected the Cards' 2½-game edge over Brooklyn. The Dodgers tamed the Chicago Cubs 7 to 1.

Carl Furillo clouted his 16th homer for Brooklyn with one on in the second.

Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants divided a doubleheader, the Giants taking the opener, 13 to 4, and the Pirates the nightcap, 7 to 2.

Cincinnati Reds edged the Boston Braves 7 to 6 in the first game of a bargain bill. The second was called after nine innings because of darkness with the score deadlocked at 1 to 1.

Philadelpha and Detroit swept both games in the only American League twin bills. The A's dumped St. Louis Browns 7 to 5 and 7 to 4, and the Tigers brushed by Washington, 3 to 2 and 5 to 2.

Channel History Made As Three Turn Trick In Space Of 24 Hours

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France (AP)—Major Zason A. Ziganos tonight completed swimming the English Channel from France to England, and made Channel history by being the third man within 24 hours to swim the turbulent strait.

He stumbled ashore near Dover at 11.45 p.m. after having been in the water five minutes less than 19 hours.

Earlier two Egyptian Army men swam the channel in opposite directions, one landing here. He was Lieut. Hassan Abdel Rehim, who arrived a few minutes after midnight.

Sgt. Marie Hassan landed at St. Margaret's Bay, near Dover, at 9.12 p.m. last night.

A fourth swimmer today was Dr. George Brewer, 58-year-old London physician, who failed to make it on his 13th attempt at the feat.

Rehim made the treacherous crossing in 15 hours and 58 minutes and became the third person in history to conquer the channel in both directions.

SEAS CHOPPY

Rehim, a 41-year-old lieutenant in King Farouk's army, fought high winds and choppy seas in the west-to-east crossing. He swam from France to Britain last year in 17 hours, 47 minutes—some six hours over the record.

Rehim struck out from the beach at the village of St. Mar-Margarets, near Dover, at 10.34 a.m., G.M.T. (5.34 a.m., C.D.T.) Saturday.

The first thing he said, as he waded back into the surf to massage his tired legs with water, was: "The sea was very rough."

Cold water was an additional hazard for the Egyptian swimmer. When he left the British coast the water temperaturue was 67 degrees.

Other conquerors of the channel in both directions were two Britons—Edward Temme in 1927 and 1934 with times of 14 hours and 29 minutes and 15 hours and 54 minutes—and Tom Blower in 1937 and 1948 with times of 13 hours and 29 minutes and 16 hours and seven minutes.

THIRD THIS YEAR

Rehim was the third to swim the channel this year. The other two swam it from France to Britain. They are Philip Mickman, 18-year-old English schoolboy, who did it last month in 23 hours and 48 minutes, and Fernand Du Moulin, Belgian industrialist, who did it two weeks ago in 21 hours and 57 minutes.

Late Saturday night, Tini Jonker, 18-year-old Netherlands flower girl, failed in her attempt to make it from Britain to France.

United Fades In Final Minutes Against City

Victoria United's 4 to 4 tie with Vancouver City at Athletic Park Saturday afternoon in the opening Pacific Coast Soccer League game of the season showed a distinct lack of pre-season conditioning on the part of the locals.

United kicked away a grand chance to emerge with a victory in the opening engagement in the final minutes of the second half when they wilted badly allowing the mainland eleven to come from behind a 4 to 1 deficit and earn a deadlock.

City scored three goals in the matter of 25 minutes after Tommy Druce, Victoria centre-forward and star of the local attack, left the game suffering from an injured knee.

Prior to his departure, Druce had sparked United to the 4 to 1 margin with three goals. The hat trick by the bustling United star came after Red McMillan had given United an early lead at the 25-minute mark of the first half on a penalty against Pat Philley of the Visitors for hands.

FAST SCORING

Druce made the score 2 to 0 just a minute after McMillan's penalty goal when he took a cross from left winger Ab Travis and beat Ray Dixon easily. Red McMillan started the play from midfield.

Seven minutes later Druce counted his second marker and United's third goal when he headed the sphere into the net following another pass from Ab Travis.

City's first goal came just before the end of the half when Bill McAllister misjudged a corner kick and Ivan Carr tapped the ball into the net leaving United on the long end of a 3 to 1 score at the intermission.

BIG LEAD

Eleven minutes after the start of the second half Druce scored United's fourth goal with a header from McMillan's free kick putting the locals on top 4 to 1 and apparently settling the issue.

However, Druce's injury and the substitution of Murray Speller for Art Young resulting in a complete re-organiation of the forward line appeared to leave United in a weakened state and City started on the comeback trail.

Denny Rogers and Carr combined for City's second goal at the 21-minute mark with Carr notching the third Vancouver tally with eight minutes to play and Alan Sawyer beating McAllister to the ball to score the tieing goal with four minutes left.

NANAIMO BEATEN

At Nanaimo St. Andrews badly whipped the hometown eleven, 9 to 1, while on the mainland, North Shore edged New Westminster Royals, 2 to 1.

Brian Philley netted four goals in the Scots one-sided victory.

North Shore bumped into unexpected trouble against the Royals but emerged on top with a first-half goal by John MacKay and second-half marker by Frank Ambler. Royals only goal was scored by Gordie McDonald later in the second stanza.

B.C. All-Stars Gain Minto Cup Final

WINNIPEG (CP) — British Columbia all-stars, western Canadian junior lacrosse champions, left here last night for Owen Sound, Ont., to meet the Ontario all-stars in a five-game series for the Dominion title and the Minto Cup.

The B.C. aggregation Saturday night swamped Manitoba all-stars, 20 to 8, for a clean sweep of their best-of-three series for the western Canada crown. They won the first game last Thursday, 15 to 4.

Forward Doug Hull paced the B.C. club to victory with a six-goal effort. He dented the twine once in each of the first two quarters, adding braces in each of the last two.

Other B.C. marksmen were Cliff Johnson with four, Lyle Kehoe and Gord Stewart with three each, Colin Cruikshank with two and Gord Sinclair and Ken Jones one apiece.

Stamps Risk Undefeated Record Against Roughriders Tonight

REGINA (CP)—The league-leading Calgary Stampeders and the second-place Regina Roughriders clash here tonight in an important Western Interprovincial Football Union fixture which will see the Riders—if they win—move into a first-place tie with the Stamps.

The Riders are expected to dress the same 30 players whose performance Saturday gave the club a 13 to 1 victory over the third-place Edmonton Eskimos.

Neither club suffered any injuries in Saturday's games. Stampeders rolled to a 20 to 1 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The Riders worked out here yesterday and Stampeders did likewise in Winnipeg.

Backfielder Sully Glasser made his first appearance of the season with the Riders Saturday, since breaking his leg last year.

Dean Bandiera, who has held down two positions in his career with the Riders, now has been shifted to guard, the position in which he starred with the Montreal Alouettes and Queens University. Previously he had played fullback.

GROUND ATTACK

In Saturday's game against the Eskimos, Riders used their power along the ground and in the air to good effect, moving into a 6 to 0 lead in the second quarter on a converted touchdown, adding a single before the half and tucking the game away with another major score in the third quarter.

Eskimos scored their only point in the third quarter, when fullback Pat West muffed an attempted field goal from Riders' 31-yard strip. Ken Charlton received and tried to return the kick. But the ball struck Eskimos' Don Simon in the face and Rider quarterback Doug Belden fell on it to save a touchdown, giving Eskimos the point.

RIDERS UNBEATEN

The Ottawa Rough Riders maintained their unbeaten streak with a 19 to 12 victory Saturday over the surprisingly powerful Hamilton Wildcats of the Eastern Interprovincial Union.

The faltering Toronto Argonauts were beaten 24 to 11 by Montreal Alouettes, who moved into a second-place tie with the Argos. Ottawa has won four games; Toronto and Montreal have each won two and lost two. Hamilton has lost four.

ROCKETS IN FIRST PLACE

In the Senior Ontario Union, Windsor Rockets blanked Sarnia Imperials 13 to 0, moving into a first-place tie with the Imperials. The Hamilton Tigers smothered Toronto Balmy Beach 45 to 2. Sarnia and Windsor lead with three wins and one loss apiece. Hamilton has one win, two defeats, and Balmy Beach has lost all three starts.

At Ottawa Saturday a crowd of 13,000 saw the Wildcats threatening most of the way. Fumbles or interceptions cost them a chance to tie it up in the last half. Tom Casey, colored Hamilton import, starred as a kicker, passer, receiver and broken-field runner. He scored both Hamilton majors, and kicked a single. Murmylyk's convert was the other Hamilton point.

Riders scored two of their majors on pass plays capitalizing on Wildcat defence lapses. Bill Larochelle scored two touchdowns, Howie Turner the other. Eric Chipper converted all three and Tony Golab added a single.

At Toronto a crowd of more than 18,000 saw the Alouettes come from behind with a strong ground offensive to crush the Argos.

Shadbolt Exhibit In New York

The first exhibition in the United States of paintings by J. L. Shadbolt, for many years one of Canada's leading modern artists, opened at the Laurel Gallery, New York. This is one of the most important exhibitions by a modern Canadian artist held in New York in several years. It typifies the vigorous new developments of the arts in Canada as yet little known in the United Stais.

Born in Victoria in 1909, Shadbolt grew up in the Canadian Northwest, and studied in the elementary schools of British Columbia, and later London, Paris and New York. His paintings have been widely exhibited in Canada and in Europe. He has been for several years on the staff of the Vancouver School of Art, and the extension staff of the University of British Columbia. He is also active in the Federation of Canadian Artists, the National Film Society, and other Canadian art projects.

Firemen Put Out Two House Blazes

City firemen during the weekend put out fires in two homes. One took place at 3.43 this morning at 239 Menzies Street in the woodwork around the fireplace. On Sunday they extinguished a blaze in a wall partition at 1944 Oak Bay Avenue. Firemen were on the job for an hour at both addresses.

Playlot Contest Winners Awarded Special Trophy

A special trophy awarded for capturing top honors in a recent home playlot contest sponsored by the Recreation Council of Greater Victoria was won by Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Emerson, 1207 Duke Street.

Police Chief J. A. McLellan presented the trophy from the Police Mutual Benefit Association to the winners. The award will be a perpetual trophy to be competed for annually. The winning family also received a small silver cup and game for the children.

Chief McLellan, in a brief address, stressed the value of family playlots as a means of keeping the children at home. He said the behavior of children was, to a great extent, dependent on their parents.

Mrs. G. W. Pottinger, president of the district council of the P.-T.A. and one of the judges, presented the prizes to the next two winners, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Archer, 2125 Hall Street, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Murdoch, 2240 Beach Drive.

Prizes were also awarded by Emerson Smith, a judge, to Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Mitchell, 1653 Burton Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Slater, 1630 Oaklands.

A special presentation went to Mr. and Mrs. A. Strugnell, 540 Selkirk Street. They were the only couple who participated in the contest for a second time.

W. Taylor, vice-president of the Recreation Council, was in the chair, in the absence of J. Haltest committee, who was unable test committee ,who was unable to attend the presentation owing to illness.

Counsel Asks Nominal Fine For Man Charged After Lottery Raid

Frank G. Hilton, 36, of Charlton Road, Prospect Lake, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of conducting a sweepstake. He was remanded to Thursday morning for sentence by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Charge arose after city police last week made a series of surprise raids to smash a Canada-wide lottery chain.

In speaking to sentence, Joseph McKenna, defence counsel, said that "morally speaking many of us want to buy lottery tickets for it is a desire in the human heart to gamble."

Counsel admitted there was no question that his client's act was against the law "but I hope you will take judicial notice of the fact that there has been and still is considerable discussion in this country — in fact, a very lively topic; indeed — as to whether or not lotteries should be allowed."

Referring to penalty, Mr. McKenna pointed to a case that went to Supreme Court where accused was fined only $25 or three months in jail. Fines in Chinese lottery cases in Vancouver, he said, were $75. He subsubmitted that for all the reasons he had advanced a nominal fine should be imposed in the present case.

Magistrate Hall granted the request of counsel when asked that the $500 bail be continued so that accused would not be held in custody until sentence is imposed. Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, did not object to this application.

Question of what will be destroyed of the great mass of records and sweepstake paraphernalia collected in the raids and what will be returned to accused, will be decided by the court Thursday.

Constable William Andrews gave the court the circumstances in the case.

EXHIBITS DISPLAYED

The whole mass of seizures was displayed in the courtroom and Const. Andrews explained what each of the cartons, a car trunk and suitcases, contained.

Hilton was charged with conducting the Canadian Mutual Transportation Sweepstake, although the officer said there were records of other smaller lotteries in the seizures.

Const. Andrews said the raids followed arrest of Hilton at Fort and Government Streets Sept. 14.

In addition to many thousands of old stubs and books of tickets, the officer reported the collections included numerous accounts and index boxes containing the names of almost every city and town across Canada.

Const. Andrews said that most of the seizures were made in a shed behind Hilton's home, but that 14,508 uncut C.M.T.A. tickets were picked up at the J. Parker Buckle Printing Co. at 1115 Blanshard Street.

This edition, he said, guaranteed $4,000 in prizes.

25 CENTS A TICKET

Mr. Harrison read from information sheets to agents the caution "Do not use the mails" and "use express only."

Mr. McKenna said sale price of a C.M.T.A. ticket was 25 cents.

The officer exhibited the C.M.T.A. stamp found in the shed.

Const. Andrews said that for several days parcels made out for G. Brown, W. Jones and Little were picked up by the police at the C.P. and C.N. express offices. He said they were collected by Hilton. The constable reported a number of remittance receipt slips found and other material collected from the express offices.

Remand was granted as Mr. Harrison said he wished to get a true copy of accused's record from Ottawa.

Final Contest Held For Model Airplane City Championships

Sunday at Macdonald Park the second and final contest of the Victoria Model Airplane League's city championships was held. The results did not affect the championships standing and Bell Gelling of the Oak Bay Club is this year's junior champion. Runner-up was John Bailey, last year's champion.

In the senior competition Dick Chisholm was the winner and Don Harvey placed second. Rod McLeod topped the open class.

The control line meet had its trouble with contestants getting flights between showers. In the stunt fuying Frank Lewis, of Ladysmith, repeated his fine performance of last year to win Junior Stunt. Herb Taylor of Nanaimo was second.

Doug Collis won the Open Stunt and Bob Jansch of Chemainus and Art Roy, also of Chemainus, placed third.

The speed flying enthusiasts had a hard time and there were very few flights recorded. John Bailey won the class "A" speed with 108 M.P.H., which is a good speed for these small motors. Rod McLeod won class "B".

A twin-engine A-26 Invader scale model built and flown by Mike Murray, and Bud George's 8-foot Stinson Reliant scale model proved popular with the spectators.

PRIZE PRESENTATION

All prizes will be presented at a league get-together to be held Friday, Sept. 30, at the Elks' Hall. This will mark the close of the model flying season. Winter activities are now underway with three clubs holding weekly meetings to instruct and guide younger members in the art of model aircraft construction.

Funeral Services On Wednesday For Veteran Sealer

CAPT. VICTOR JACOBSON

The remains of a famous seal hunter will be laid to rest at Royal Oak Burial Park Wednesday afternoon.

The funeral will be for Capt. Victor Jacobson, 97, born in Finland of Swedish parents, and a resident of this city for 65 years.

Capt. Jacobson first went to sea at the age of 12, shipping out on the square-rigger Seven Seas. Following his maritime ambition, he eventually became owner of his own vessel, a small schooner with which he began trading with the B.C. coast Indians in the 1870's.

Sailing out of Victoria each spring, he put into Barkley, Clayuquot, Kyuquot and Quatsino Sounds where he picked up the principal catch of the Indians—seal skins.

By 1879, Capt. Jacobson had decided to follow the seal herds himself and he used his schooner as base with Indian spearmen using their dugout canoes for stalking.

The year 1911 saw the end of pelagic sealing out of this port and Capt. Jacobson changed his hunt for wealth from the sea. This time he went after cod, traveling as far north as the Bering Sea, whose frigid waters were later to drive him ashore.

However, going ashore did not mean that Capt. Jacobson had lost his love of the sea, and he made his home aboard a houseboat in the Inner Harbor from where he could see the waters through which the sealing schooners once moved in their hey-day.

The veteran mariner, who died Saturday in Vancouver, is survived by a son and daughter, Victor Alvin Jacobson and Mrs. Eva Sweeney, both of Victoria, and by four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Rev. James Hood will officiate at the funeral services which will be held at 3.15 Wednesday afternoon from McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel.

J. R. Church of Vancouver has been named first regional representative of the Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants.

Half-Naked Man Breaks Into Home, Grapples Woman

Esquimalt police are continuing investigations today into a frightening incident experienced by two women in an Esquimalt home early Sunday morning when a half-naked man broke into the house and grappled with the owner.

Police reported that Mrs. J. E. Godman was awakened by the noise of her bedroom window breaking at the 315 Armit Road dwelling house at 1:30.

She got up to investigate and walked right into a man.

Wearing a coat, but no clothes on the lower part of the body, the intruder grabbed her and a struggle ensued.

Mrs. Godman's frightened screams awakened Mrs. E. Dickinson, asleep in an adjoining room. On her appearance the intruder made a hasty retreat through the window he had broken.

The screams of the women awakened Cmdr. A. C. Wurtele and Mrs. Wurtele at 321 Armit. They went over and on learning about the escaped culprit called the police.

Police said investigations showed the man had first put the telephone out of commission.

Police are reported to have questioned several suspects.

Woman Had Lucky Escape With Gas

Mrs. Margaret Parkinson, Parkway Apartments, Pandora Avenue and Cook Street, had a narrow escape with death Sunday due to a defective gas range, city police reported.

Police said that A. Manson, caretaker, heard moans coming from Mrs. Parkinson's suite and on entering found her lying on the floor and the gas jets on a defective range open.

Police said Mrs. Parkinson, luckily, had not been exposed to the gas very long when found by the caretaker.

A $50 fine and a two-month license suspension, was imposed against Harry Keoppel, Leechtown, by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today. He pleaded guilty to dangerous driving early this morning on Gorge Road. Constable Edward Hamer reported accused's car struck a parked car.

IN MEMORIAM

McKIE—In loving memory of my dear wife, Shirley, who passed away on September 19, 1948.
The world may change from year to year
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.
—Ever remembered by her husband, Roy.

McKIE—In loving memory of our daughter, Shirley Labadie McKie, who passed away on September 19, 1948.
No one knows the heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell
Of the grief that we bear in silence
For the one we loved so well.
—Ever remembered by mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Jenks.

PRICES AND VALUE
Day by day our reputation as "the most reasonable place in town" is growing. It's not only because our prices are lower, it's also because we pay so much attention to quality and condition of the used furniture we sell. A big low rent location plus our policy of a smaller profit and faster turnover does enable us to sell for less. But please don't judge value by price alone. Come in and see our stock, notice condition and quality, then read the price tags.

Believes Dollar Cut Would Encourage Manufacturing

Devaluation of the Canadian dollar would likely encourage more large American firms to open subsidiary plants in Canada, H. L. Sheen, of the electronics division, Canadian General Electric Company, Toronto, said today in Victoria.

A ten per cent cut in the Canadian dollar value, as is anticipated by many persons today, would serve as an additional ten per cent tariff on goods being imported into Canada from the U.S., Mr. Sheen pointed out.

"Some companies might think this too much, and decide to open subsidiary companies in Canada so as to get around this extra cost."

Mr. Sheen said he based his opinions on what happened in the radio manufacturing field when Canada's dollar was discounted to 90 cents American currency during the Second World War.

"At the start, nearly all the component parts a radio receiving set were manufactured in the United States and brought to Canada for assembling. Now, however, practically all parts are made right in Canada."

While backed mostly by U.S. interest, the companies employ Canadian workers and use Canadian materials wherever possible.

TELEVISION PROGRESS

Turning from present-day finances to the field of television, Mr. Sheen noted that while rapid strides had been made in the U.S. to bring video into the homes of the people, progress in Canada had been slow.

Far from being critical, Mr. Sheen pointed out that great distances between centres of population in this country constitutes major problems to television experts.

"The speed of development here in Canada," he said, "will depend largely on the federal government. The CBC has indicated transmitters for telecasts will be constructed in Montreal and Toronto late in 1950. It will then be a question of other parts of the country becoming linked with the primary stations in the large centres."

Television will catch on with the public once a national network is established; just as radio did, Mr. Sheen thought. Cost of such a network will be terrifically high compared with what it was to establish a radio chain, he admitted.

Such a network would consist mostly of satellite stations which would pick up broadcasts from transmitting stations and then radiate them within their own localities.

"It is obvious television, being so new, will be subject to rapid improvements in quality," he concluded. "More popular prices will become available in time."

For this reason, he advised, home owners would do well to invest in new radios and leave television sets until later.

Suspension Of Foreign Exchange Affects Visitors

Following the devaluation of the pound, foreign exchange transactions were suspended today in all Victoria banks in accordance with instruction from Ottawa.

Bank officials reported they were awaiting word from Ottawa for instructions with regard to foreign curriencies which have all been affected by the devaluation of the pouund.

The closing of the foreign exchanges interfered with many U.S. visitors and Canadians, according to bank officials. Many Canadians seeking U.S. money were unable to obtain American currency. U.S. visitors who also sought dollars from their own country were unable to transact any business with the banks.

One bank official said they could change Canadian currency into American money only in case of emergency, but permission would first have to be obtained from Ottawa.

EXCEPTIONAL CASES

"We can always help exceptional cases," said one chartered accountant. "But it has to be a case of emergency."

He reported that one Canadian who was just about to leave for the United States was unable to exchange Canadian money for U.S. currency. He had only $15 in American money.

The Canadian decided to travel to eastern Canada before crossing the American border in the hope that the currency situation would be settled by then.

In some cases banks exchanged American cheques for American money.

Bank officials also reported they were besieged with telephone calls today concerning the effects of the devaluation of the pound. Some people asked if they could exchange British sterling before the pound value was set.

"It is too late to do anything now," said a bank official.

Transit Systems Advised Of Parades

Police Chief J. A. McLellan wrote the City Council today that he advised transportation companies and the fire department of any street parades of processions which might affect the routes of buses and fire equipment.

He was replying to a request from Ald. Harold M. Diggon at the last meeting of the council that the bus companies be warned about parades so that equipment could be re-routed to maintain service.

Ald. Diggon said buses were thrown out of schedule by a recent evening parade.

The police chief said the recent parade, staged on Monday, Sept. 12, was not unknown to the bus companies or the fire department. All had been advised three days ahead of time that the roads would be in use.

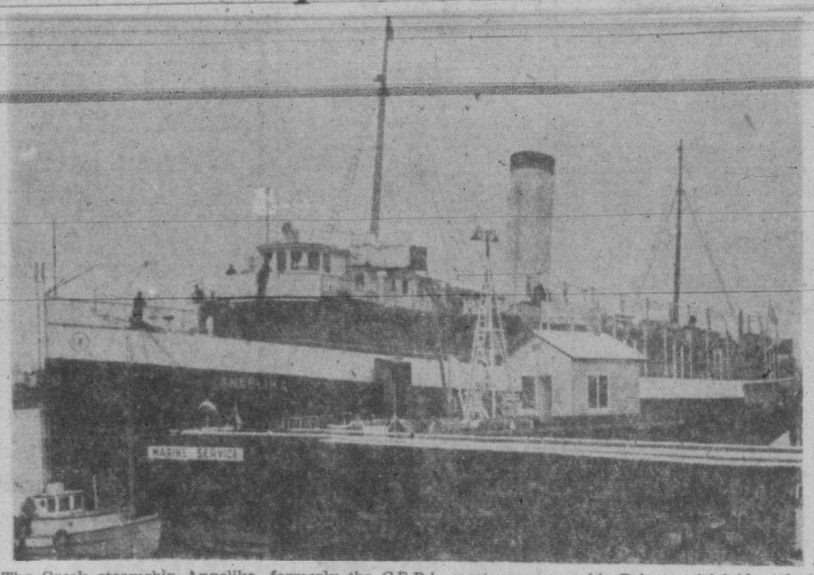
Disabled Packer Towed Into Port

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—The halibut boat Ocean Cape of Juneau, Alaska, was towed to this northern B.C. port Sunday for engine repairs after being adrift several hours in the north entrance to dangerous Grenville Channel 20 miles south.

The 58-foot Ocean Cape, packing salmon to Seattle, sent out a call for help Saturday night after engine trouble. The Armour Salvage Co. dispatched the tug Kaien I which brought the stricken packer back here. None of her six-man crew was identified.

Victoria Ship Sails For Greece



The Greek steamship Angelika, formerly the C.P.R.'s coast passenger ship Princess Adelaide, takes on oil at the British-American Oil Co. wharf in Victoria prior to her sailing Saturday on an 11,000-mile voyage which will take her to her new home port in Greece.

Capt. John Papadakis, master of the Angelika, who, with a 21-man crew, will make the 35-day voyage. Limited oil capacity of the ship's tanks is forcing the Angelika to make the journey at the conservative speed of approximately 10 knots, according to Capt. Papadakis.

Says Canada May Look For Even Better Travel Year

Canada, already with a record tourist travel year, has even better prospects ahead of it, according to N. R. Des Brisay, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mr. Des Brisay remarked on the favorable tourist traffic enjoyed by Vancouver Island. General traffic, he said, had been the heaviest in years, particularly with respect to automobile traffic.

He spoke also of the success of the re-converted Princess Kathleen on the Alaska run. All trips of the summer schedule, except the first and last, had been completely sold out, he said.

In addition to Victoria's record business, Nanaimo and Sidney also received unusually high numbers of tourists.

On the general travel picture for western Canada, Mr. Des Brisay was optimistic. New roomette cars, now operating between Toronto and Winnipeg, early next year will be operating right through to the B.C. coast, he said. The 65 new air-conditioned day coaches, to be on C.P.R. lines later this year, also are expected to give an added incentive to tourist traffic.

Battle Of Britain Heroes Honored By City Veterans

Nearly 1,000 Victorians watched a moving ceremony at the Cenotaph Sunday which paid tribute to the gallant airmen who fought the Germans over beleaguered Britain in 1940.

Taking part in the ceremony were 200 members of the R.C.A.F. regulars, veterans of both the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. and members of the local air cadet squadron.

Starting out from in front of Christ Church Cathedral at 2.30 in the afternoon the parade, led by the navy band from H.M.C.S. Naden, proceeded through downtown Victoria streets to the Cenotaph.

Young and old alike, members of the parade were honoring those members of air crew and ground crew who went gallantly day after day to renew the defence of their homeland against the constant air hordes sent over by the Germans in an attempt to beat Britain into admitting defeat.

Churchill's words: "Never was so much owed by so many to so few," were in the hearts of all who observed the Battle of Britain Sunday here.

SERVICE-FADED UNIFORMS

As the citizens watched the parade go by they were able to see, spotted among the smart uniforms of the regulars and cadets, other uniforms faded with years of service in the war-torn air over Europe and worn again especially for the occasion.

Flights of the parade were under R.C.A.F. permanent force officers commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. Lorne Howey, D.F.C., officer commanding the air force recruiting unit here.

The service before the Cenotaph was conducted by Rev. F. E. M. Tomlin, a former R.C.A.F. Chaplain, and the salute of the parade past was taken by an R.A.F. veteran, Air Commodore S. L. G. Pope, who came to Victoria to live at the end of the war.

Accompanying him at the saluting base were Group Capt. B. Millward, commandant of the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads; Sqdn. Ldr. C. Goodie, R.C.A.F. and Sqdn. Officer M. Goode, representing the W.A.A.F.

Australian Mayor Flies To Vancouver

A hand of goodwill stretched far and fast from Australian and Canada today when the Lord Mayor of Sydney, Hon. R. B. G. O'Dea, arrived on the B.C. coast aboard the Canadian Pacific airliner Empress of Vancouver on an official visit to this country.

With air service like this, Canada and Australia have become next-door neighbors, said the smiling chief executive of Australia's largest city as he arrived in Vancouver at the end of an 8,000-mile journey by air.

"It is a boon, particularly to businessmen, and I can see the time when, they will be traveling between the two countries almost as readily as between their own cities."

OUR "OUR" WAY

AROUND OUR HOUSE . . . it's been pretty tough sledding, 'cause the P.'s gone to Seattle . . . to a wedding. She left our joint so spic-span, we drove to the wharf in our grey Sedan. And all the way . . . instructions she gave, on how our daughters . . . should behave. "Now remember Marite . . . don't sit & fool, 'cause you gotta rise early . . . & get to school. And YOUR shirts & socks," she said to me, "are in the top drawer . . . plain to see." We pecked her farewell . . . waved her hands, said we'd comply . . . with ALL her demands. Well . . . right off the bat . . . we came to harm, 'cause that nite I forgot . . . to set the alarm. And we didn't wake up . . . till a quarter to 8, as you know . . . that's . . . somewhat late. It's getting late . . . soon will be cold, & altho we don't like to have to scold. You'd better hurry . . . if a heater you need, you can set the "QUAKER" at just the right speed. It's 3 heaters all rolled into one, & the mechanical draft is a son-of-a-gun. And with the heat circulator . . . no chilly blasts, so hurry-hurry . . . while our stock lasts. I grabbed the corn flakes off the shelf, as like a fireman . . . I drest myself. I screamed at the kids, and threatening said, "just ONE more second . . . to get outa bed." I yanked the toaster . . . slaughtered some bread, I pitched my pyjamas . . . on the bed. I smashed some eggs into the pan, again screamed at Trudie & the sleepier "San." Where was the butter & the jam, NUTHIN was going . . . according to plan. I slid to the bathroom . . . to Molle my face, the gals to this cubicle . . . then staged a race. At the size of the thing I seethed a curse, while Trudie claimed, "I was here first." "Something's on fire," sed Trude from her post, "so help me," I sed, "I bet it's the toast." I yanked up the window . . . to let the smoke out, when suddenly I heard . . . another shout. "Your eggs, Daddy . . . lookit this mess," I felt like sending an SOS. A stack of more bread I crucified, then to stuff in the slots . . . I tried & tried. "Why don't they slice this spongy goo, like they always used to do??" "Ah . . . nuts to the toaster," I disgustingly said, "just smear some jam . . . on the bread." "Where's the milk, Daddy . . . gosh we'll be late," "darned if I know . . . guess it's up at the gate." Out dashed the eldest to get the stuff, I'd forgotten my coffee . . . I'd HAD ENUFF. Down to our store . . . you had better dash, we've a Davenport Sale . . . that's making a splash. You'll save 20¢ bucks . . . yes that's what you'll do, we can show you green . . . rose or the blue. Jammed full of coils . . . cover so fine, and the splashy price is just sixty-nine ($69). Free delivery plus informal credit . . . so there's no reason . . . U shouldn't gedd-it. C'mon now . . . just gulp that milk down, I'll get MY breakfast when I get to town. Grab your coats, now WHERE are your hats, we've forgotten to feed the sufferin' cats. I slopped their milk . . . all over the place, as I wiped the Molle . . . off my face. 'Twas 20 to nine when we hit the road, to be stalled by a truck . . . with a heavy load. We just made the school . . . in the nick of time, Trudie's hair I saw . . . was rather a crime. I drove to town to the barber shop, he looked at me then razored his strop. WHAT A WAY . . . I thot . . . to start the day, & under the towel I nearly passed away. And that because . . . there under that sheet, I was weak . . . from nothing to eat. I was flipped up right . . . in a very short while, I thanked the man with a feeble smile. I sed to the waitress "you got some hen-fruit, 2 please, & some coffee to boot." When I got to the store, it seemed nearly noon, & my brothers sed, "Why hello You . . . GOOD AFTERNOON."

COUNTY CLUB

BY HOLLOWAY HORN

Principal Characters:

ARTHUR DOLLIMORE: A very modern product of the Metropolitan Police College.

SUPERINTENDENT DUCROS: An older and more experienced police officer.

SILAS ROLLITER: A solicitor whose knowledge of the law enables him to ignore it . . . for a fee.

MRS. LEWIN: The wealthy widow of a South African magnate.

MARY STENNING: Her young secretary and companion.

MONTY FERNANDEZ: Who manages the Mossford County Club—suave and cosmopolitan.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTER

SUPERINTENDENT DUCROS and STATION - INSPECTOR DOLLIMORE arrive as guests at the Mossford County Club run by MONTY FERNANDEZ in what was once a gracious English manor house. They have been sent to track FLASH CARDEW, a former associate of Fernandez, who has arrived in Britain from America and is wanted by the police.

The two policemen mingle with the guests in the evening and "Dolly," short for Dollimore, who is fresh from Oxford and Police College is much attracted by a girl who is sitting in the company of an old lady. He asks her to dance.

(Now read on.)

INSTALLMENT 2

SUPERINTENDENT DUCROS watched his promising subordinate stroll up casually to the manager of the club and a moment later saw that the two men were chatting together. He had often admired Dolly's devastating self-confidence. There was, the old policeman realized, something to be said for Oxford.

"Sure I will!" Monty Fernandez was saying. "Come along, sir."

Ducros, with increasing admiration, watched the two men approach the table where the girl and the elderly lady were sitting.

"May I present Mr. Arthur Dollimore, Mrs. Lewin?"

The elderly lady graciously inclined her head.

"And to you, Miss Stenning?"

"Would you care to dance?" Dolly asked.

The girl glanced at the elderly lady, who smiled.

"Thank you," she said, and a moment later they were on the floor together.

Ducros was not the only one who watched them, for they were the most striking couple in the room. Most of the women were far more expensively dressed than the girl, but the simple black frock she wore—she had paid 35s for it in Soho—was very attractive.

She had level blue eyes and her hair, as Dollimore afterwards pointed out to the unresponsive Ducros, was the color of wheat straw in the autumn. In Dollimore's opinion she was an extremely pretty girl, and she had not been in his arms for a minute before he knew that she could dance. And when Dollimore admitted that about a girl she could dance.

"You're a resident, I suppose?" he asked.

"I'm Mrs. Lewin's secretary. We've been here several weeks and shall probably stay on for a while."

"We're just down for the week-end."

"Your father?"

"No. He's just a business friend. Nice old boy. You like this place?"

DANCE FLOOR CONVERSATION

She shrugged her shoulders: "Mine not to reason why—but it might be worse," she added with a smile.

"You play golf?"

"No" she smiled.

"Thank you," he said as the dance came to its end. "You're splendid. We must have another later on."

"I'd like to," she said calmly. Mrs. Lewin will go up presently, but I'm in no hurry."

The old lady, indeed, retired shortly afterwards. The girl would have accompanied her, but Mrs. Lewin, as Dollimore noticed, motioned her to stay. Clearly, in Dollimore's opinion, an old lady hall-marked in every link.

"I suppose you'll be continuing your investigations now on the lines they taught you in college?" Ducros said, with heavy but pleasant sarcasm.

"It does seem rather indicated," Dollimore agreed. "She's been here several weeks and knows most of the people. Unquestionably, an avenue to be explored."

"You're sure she's not Flash Cardew in disguise?" Ducros asked with immense solemnity.

"I don't think so," said Dollimore, judicially.

"Go on! You're bound to make an ass of yourself sooner or later, so why not sooner?"

"Why not, if what you say is true?"

It was an excellent floor, an excellent band, and Inspector Dollimore, who looked even better in a dinner jacket than he did in a sports suit, made the most of his opportunities.

"My word, but it was a bit of luck finding you here!" he said, a dance or so later.

"Its certainly a pleasure to dance with someone who can dance. You might almost be a professional."

"I very nearly was when I came down from Oxford. I wanted to be a film actor, I mean. But apparently I'm not an actor at all. Where's the man who was with you at tea-time, by the way?"

"Mr. Glinshe? He's called a host here. He arranges the dances and — poor fellow! — dances with any odd females left over."

"Glinshe?" he repeated in surprise. "Not Ronnie Glinshe, by any chance?"

"I think it is."

"Then a few years ago — I knew him. I wondered what had become of him.

"He's new to the place, too. I was deeply sorry for him the other evening—there was a scene he. Some friend of Mr. Fernandez had rather too much to drink and called him a qualified gigolo."

"What happened?"

"Nothing. He just flushed and turned away."

EXPRESSION CHANGED

"Did he recognize me this evening?"

"I'm not sure. He was looking at you and I noticed his expression suddenly change."

The Inspector, presumably still obeying the dictates of duty, suggested a stroll through the garden but the girl shook her head: "No, thanks," se said. "I am expecting a friend any moment."

"That's a pity," said Dollimore, but she smiled and did not reply.

They danced again and Dollimore noticed that Glinshe had returned.

"What's the time?" his partner asked him.

"Nine-seventeen," he told her—with official exactitude.

"Then I must go."

"But you will come back?"

"I don't know. It's been jolly, anyway."

"But tomorrow?"

"I shall be here," she smiled. "No, don't worry," she went on, as she picked up a cloak from the back of her chair and turned towards the door. "Your friend is looking deserted. Goodnight!"

And with that she left him. He watched her pass through the big glass door that opened on to the veranda, and as he turned back to rejoin Ducros, noticed that she was talking to a man in a raincoat at the top of the steps.

As the girl left him, a man came across the floor to meet him: "Hallo, Dolly!" he said.

"Odd meeting you in a place like this."

"And you, Ronny," he replied, as they shook hands.

"Oh, I'm a dance partner here. A job—of sorts."

"But I thought you went to Hollywood when you came down."

"I did. I also returned," Glinshe said with a smile. "Still, no one here associates me with —Oxford—thank goodness!"

"You're wearing glasses?"

"That's part of the trouble. But someone told me that you—"

It was useless to prevaricate, and Dollimore, who knew his man, nodded: "But not a word, Ronnie."

"Naturally. And I know I can rely on your discretion, too. I'm not too anxious for people to know what I'm doing, as you can imagine. And I've got another job in view, anyway."

"Pity about the eyes, Ronny. Otherwise you might have come into my push. Tell me, who was the little lady I was dancing with?"

"Mary Stenning? A thoroughbred!"

"So I thought. Most of the others here—"

"Poisonous!" Glinshe said, with a grimace.

"Look here, come over and meet my friend—for immediate purposes he's a business man from Manchester or Liverpool or thereabouts."

"I'll come over presently. I've been away rather too long, and there are several fearful females I shall have to dance with — heaven help me!"

ON THE SCENT OF A CROOK

"Well?" Ducros demanded when his colleague rejoined him.

"She's wonderful! Like a feather in a man's arms."

"Well—well!" said the elder man. "I finished up the Burgundy while you were making good with the young woman. There's something satisfying in a bottle of good wine, but the prices they charge here will make the accounts branch look down its nose when our bill goes in."

"Still, if we get on to Flash's track it won't matter what it does with its nose."

"If he's here at all, he's not on show," said Ducros, quietly.

"I may find out something presently. See that man dancing with the old lady in mauve?"

Ducros nodded.

"He was at St. Mary's with me."

"At Oxford?"

"Yes."

"My lad will probably go to London, thank goodness!" Ducros said grimly.

"He's a very good scout, really. He wants to be an actor, and he took this pestilential job when he struck a very thing patch. He's only been here a week or so, and he's going as soon as he can fix up something better. He's coming over presently, and I fancy that he may be able to help us."

Another instalment tomorrow.

Commons Acts To End Privy Council Appeals

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons this afternoon gave first reading to a bill providing for abolition of appeals to the Privy Council in London.

The measure was the first to be given a reading since the first session of the 21st Parliament opened last Thursday.

Opposition Leader George Drew told the Commons monetary devaluation "is only the beginning of the solution of our major problem . . . of finding a way in which Britain and the other sterling countries can purchase our products."

The Progressive Conservative chief, starting the parade of party leaders through the Throne-Speech debate, said Canada should seek in every possible way "to find some way by which the Canadian dollar and the pound may be freely interchangeable."

He said he would not move an amendment to the Speech from the Throne — tantamount to a vote of lack of confidence—because it "would serve no useful purpose" in the light of the fact that "the government has just had a decisive vote of confidence from the people."

He also urged "most earnestly" that the provinces be consulted before Parliament is asked to take any steps leading towards revision of the method of amending the constitution.

The Throne Speech, voice of government policy, said Parliament will be asked at this session to approve addresses to the United Kingdom parliament asking that the Canadian Parliament be allowed to amend the constitution in federal matters. It also proposed consultation with the provinces after the session to extend this to provincial matters.

An amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was moved this afternoon by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader. It expresses regret that the government has failed to provide legislation towards removal of the means test from old-age pensions.

Paris Police Round Up Ring Of Fashion Pirates

PARIS (UP) — French police promised additional arrests today in efforts to stamp out a ring of fashion pirates who copy exclusive Paris creations for exhibition to New York buyers at "$100 a look."

Roger Andre Delpech, director of the French Surete Nationale's economic division, estimated that all the fastest selling models of the 1949-1950 fall collection already have been spirited to New York, some only hours after their first showing in exclusive Paris salons.

Delpech said the design smuggling racket was executed by bands of four to five persons, including spies right in the fashion houses.

An American model was arrested in Paris last month with 20 to 30 counterfeit patterns of top Paris designs in her luggage. Another agent, Henry Cassel, a British subject, was arrested on charges of copying fur designs. Warrants also have been issued for several Frenchmen.

Delpech said the racket was costing Paris fashion houses millions a year in sales lost to the American market.

The U.S. mannequin, whose name was not disclosed, was released after paying a $9,000 fine to the Paris fashion syndicate.

Ex-Hockey Player Taken To Inquest

MONTREAL (CP) — Tony Demers, former National Hockey League player held as a material witness in the death Friday of a Coaticook, Que., woman, was in custody in Montreal today and tonight will be taken to Magog for an inquest on the woman's death.

Dr. J. M. Roussel, Montreal medico-legal expert, performed an autopsy Saturday which showed there was no skull fracture but that Mrs. Anita Laberge died from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Bishop Resigns

TORONTO (CP) — Anglican Church authorities at the week-end accepted the resignation of Rt. Rev. A. L. Fleming as bishop of the diocese of the Arctic. He headed the diocese—largest in the world—for 16 years, and resigned because of ill-health.

N.M.U. Anti-Red

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Maritime Union (C.I.O.) today adopted an anti-Communist resolution which said "we will defend our country against any enemy, including the Soviet Union."

C.N.R. Head On Coast

VANCOUVER (CP)—R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, conferred with provincial company officers here today. He arrived Saturday on the Ss. Prince George, one of the company's newest vessels.

Sweden Devalues

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The Swedish crown was devalued tonight to 5.18 crowns to the dollar. The old rate was 3.60.

This made devaluation effective for all Scandinavian countries. Norway, Finland and Denmark earlier had taken the same course.

Apparent Stalemate In T.L.C. Meeting Between Reds-Antis

CALGARY (CP)—A week-end of manoeuvring in a struggle for power between rival factions of the 450,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada appeared to have left issues stalemated today as the congress entered the third sitting day of its annual convention here.

While an anti-Red faction of international union officers had swung the congress executive to backing its play for eviction of the Red-influenced Canadian Seamen's Union, the executive was balking at another move that would place greater power in the hands of the international unionists.

GREATER STRENGTH

This move was a change in convention voting rules that would give greater balloting strength to the international unions. It would follow the system of "bloc" voting used by the American Federation of Labor, whereby attending delegates could vote the whole strength of their unions.

The A.F.L. itself—parent organization of the T.L.C.'s international groups—has been putting pressure on the congress executive to adopt this system. The executive has been holding off on the contention that it would throw the T.L.C. completely into the hands of unions led from another country.

Leaders of both groups held a series of meetings over the week-end. While there were no official statements from either side, there were no indications up to late last night that any solution had been reached.

Attempts were being made to work out a compromise of some kind before the controversy came to the floor of the convention sometime later this week—possibly tomorrow.

No More Stones

MANAGIL, Blue Nile Province, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan (AP)—A 60-year-old Sudanese was warned Sunday by the district commissioner's office that he would be arrested if there were any more complaints about him throwing stones at his grandfather.

No Hic

Robert Meier, 25, of St. Louis, Mo., shows how he was cured of an eight-day siege of hiccups by a mysterious man using uncommon methods. The stranger, who must remain anonymous, took a noodle and two black candles candles from a black bag. He suspended the water-soaked noodle over Meier's head until the water dripped on his nose. Then, lighting the candles, he made some curious motions with his hands, and, presto, no more hic. Honest, Doc.

Chevrier Clears Owners

TORONTO (BUP)—While searchers inched through the charred wreckage of the ill-fated pleasure cruiser today, the government indicated that the fire which took at least 120 lives was not due to negligence by its owners.

Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier, reporting briefly to Parliament on the ship's condition before the fire said the ship had been certified as adequately protected against fire April 23 this year.

He said another satisfactory inspection was made since then by United States Coast Guard officials.

The Canadian report indicated the owners had installed a new fire alarm system and that the ship's engines, boilers, fire-fighting equipment and life-saving apparatus were operating efficiently, Chevrier said.

Chevrier's preliminary statement came at the same time as he announced that Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada would head a commission which would thoroughly and publicly investigate the disaster.

He said its sittings would start "as soon as it is humanly possible."

As Chevrier spoke in Ottawa, the confirmed death toll in Saturday's fire rose to 120. Doctors, salvage workers, crewmen and divers were inching their way through the ship's blackened hull searching for more.

City Financing Not Affected By Pound

All Victoria debentures are payable in dollars so the devaluation of the pound will not affect city financing to any large degree.

Henry Watson, assistant city comptroller, said today a few small purchases were made in England from time to time for the Public Library, and the parks and engineering departments.

"But they don't amount to much," he stated.

If the Canadian dollar was deflated the city purchasing agent might have to start hunting in Canada for goods the city has been buying in the United States.

Most articles bought in the U.S. were not available in Canada, though, and the city might be required to pay out more money.

"It's too early yet to give an idea of what effect the devaluation news will have on us," Mr. Watson said. "There are too many questions still unanswered. But on the big item, the debentures, we are not affected."

Seattle Bankers Take Dim View Of Canadian $ Cuts

SEATTLE (AP) — Bank officials here today agreed that devaluation of the Canadian dollar would have "quite serious" effects in border areas.

A 10 per cent drop in the exchange rate would return the Canadian dollar to the value it held until some months ago, before it was declared at par with the American dollar.

Bankers said that throughout this period Canadian dollars were subject to a 4 to 5 per cent discount on the free market. If devalued, the Canadian dollar would be discounted from 11 to 13 per cent by Seattle banks, they predicted.

Trading in Canadian currency will be discouraged in Seattle until a definite market has been fixed, spokesmen said.

Canadian Plane Links B.C.-Orient

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 34-hour flight from Vancouver to Hongkong—Canada's first direct link with the Orient — was inaugurated today when Canadian Pacific Air Lines' Empress of Auckland streaked off a runway here on the first leg of the 6,500-mile hop.

The 36-passenger Canadair is flying the shortest route to the Orient, making 90-minute fuel stops at Anchorage, Alaska, Shemya in The Aleutians and a 2½-hour stay at Tokyo before completing the trip to Hongkong. It will touch Tokyo, Okinawa and Shemya on the return.
